Cong takes talking points from Pak: PM

Rahul dares Modi to call Trump a liar

FIERY EXCHANGES ON OP SINDOOR

Before asking why PoK has not been taken back yet, Cong must respond — who let it go. India is still suffering from the mistakes committed by previous Cong govts, starting from Jawaharlal Nehru

Our ops range from Sindoor to Sindhu (Indus Treaty)... World saw the strength of self-reliant India. We destroyed terror sites deep inside Pak within 22 mins to avenge the April 22 attack

Those who consider themselves big Cong leaders are pained as to why India's stand was presented before the world. Perhaps some of their leaders have been barred from speaking in Parliament...

Narendra Modi, prime minister

You told Pakistan exactly what you would do: that you would not target military establishments and you didn't want escalation. That's surrender. Immediate surrender in 30 minutes

If he is lying, the PM should say here that Trump is lying. If he has the courage of an Indira Gandhi let him say here, 'Trump, you are a liar, you did not make a ceasefire and we did not lose any planes'

I said 3-4 months back that India's biggest foreign policy challenge has been to keep Pak and China apart... you have destroyed the single biggest goal of foreign policy. China and Pak are fused

Rahul Gandhi, Congress leader

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday launched a scathing attack on the Opposition in the Lok Sabha, asserting that no world leader asked India to halt Operation Sindoor, and accusing Congress and its allies of echoing Pakistan's narrative while the international community backed India after the April 22 Pahalgam terror attack.

"No leader came into India. No country asked us to stop. Only three nations spoke for Pakistan at the United Nations. The rest of the world stood with India… but Congress couldn't," Modi said, replying to a two-day debate on the terror attack and India's military response.

He dismissed the Opposition's claims that India acted under US pressure, referring directly to President Donald Trump's repeated claims of brokering a ceasefire between India and Pakistan. "On May 9, US Vice President JD Vance tried calling me 3-4 times. I was in meetings with our armed forces. When I returned the call, he warned of a Pakistani attack. I told him: if Pakistan fires bullets, we will answer with cannons."

Modi said India's precision strikes during Operation Sindoor destroyed terror camps deep inside Pakistan within 22 minutes. "The airbases we hit are still in the ICU," he added, asserting that India's response shook the masterminds behind the Pahalgam attack, leaving them sleepless. "India got support from the entire world, but it is unfortunate that the Congress did not support the valour of our soldiers. Congress leaders targeted me for political gains, but their frivolous statements ended up discouraging our brave soldiers," Modi said.

He accused the Congress of amplifying Pakistani propaganda and questioned its repeated scepticism of India's military intent. "Congress now depends on Pakistan for talking points. They questioned our response, doubted our soldiers, and called the operation a 'tamasha'. The world supported us, Congress didn't."

Taking aim at historical decisions by the Congress, Modi blamed Nehru-era Pakistan policies. "Before asking why PoK (Pakistan occupied Kashmir) hasn't been taken back, Congress must explain who let it go? We're still paying for Nehru's ceasefire in 1948."

He also slammed Jawaharlal Nehru for the Indus Waters Treaty. "Nehru didn't just give away our rivers — he gave Pakistan money to build dams," Modi said, adding, "From Sindoor to Sindhu, this is a notice: India will strike until Pakistan stops attacks." He said India had "called Pakistan's nuclear bluff" and proved it would not be blackmailed. "Our made-in-India drones and missiles exposed Pakistan's outdated arsenal."

Calling the Parliament session a Vijayotsav — a celebration of victory — Modi said: "I said we would teach the terrorists and their masters a lesson. Our forces did just that — and their masters haven't slept since."

Pahalgam attackers eliminated: Shah

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday told Parliament that three Pakistani Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) terrorists behind the April 22 Pahalgam attack were killed in Operation Mahadev near Srinagar, while blaming Congress for the creation of Pakistan. The slain terrorists, Suleiman, Afghan, and Jibran, were top LeT operatives responsible for killing 26 tourists in Baisaran Valley | P9

Shah must take onus for 'lapse': Kharge

Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge said Home Minister Amit Shah must take responsibility for the 'security lapse' which led to the Pahalgam attack. "J&K L-G Manoj Sinha admitted that Pahalgam was a security lapse and took responsibility for it. However, the home minister must take responsibility and not the L-G," he said | P9

Nadda apologises to Kharge in RS

The RS witnessed heated exchanges after Leader of the House J P Nadda made some objectionable remarks against Leader of the Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge. He later withdrew them and apologised. Nadda accused Kharge of "losing his mental balance" as he made some remarks against the PM. Amid opposition protests, Nadda later apologised | P9

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

LAUNCHING an all out attack on the ruling NDA government, Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday accused it of lacking the political will to support the armed forces. He dared Prime Minister Narendra Modi to call US President Donald Trump's bluff on brokering a ceasefire between India and Pakistan. "If Modi ji has even 50% of the courage that Indira Gandhi had, then clearly he must say in Parliament — Donald Trump is lying and no planes fell during Operation Sindoor," Rahul said.

Participating in a special discussion in Lok Sabha on 'Operation Sindoor', he alleged that the government revealed sensitive details about Operation Sindoor to Pakistan, soon after it was launched. Referring to Defence Minister Rajnath Singh's speech in Parliament, Rahul said it showed the lack of political will of the government. Otherwise, he asked, why would the India tell Pakistan within just half-an-hour of launching Operation Sindoor that it had not hit its military installations and did not want any escalation. "This was like a meek surrender in 30 minutes," he said.

The former Congress president cited remarks by Indian defence attache in Indonesia, Group Captain Shiv Kumar, to claim that there were constraints by the political leadership to not attack the Pakistani military establishment and their air defences. Why were the hands of the Indian Air Force tied, Rahul asked.

He also referred to the military integration between Pakistan and China, saying that India's defence forces did not fight Pakistan alone, but the joint might of the Pakistani and Chinese armies and air forces.

Rahul said India needs a prime minister who frees the Army, Air Force and Navy and tells them, "Go, finish the job," much like what Indira Gandhi did.

The goal of Operation Sindoor was to save and protect the image of the Prime Minister, who had the blood of the Pahalgam terror victims on his hands, Rahul charged. "It is dangerous at this time for the PM to use the forces to protect his image. It is dangerous for the country," he said, while asserting that the defence forces should only be used in the national interest.

Stressing that there was no "tactical mistake" by the armed forces, which led to its aircraft "being downed", Rahul said, "CDS Anil Chauhan must have the courage to say, 'My hand were tied behind my back, and I was sent into a war, and my enemy was told by my own government that we will not attack you air defence system.'"

Attacking External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, Rahul said: "The mastermind of the Pahalgam terror attack and Pakistan Army Chief, Asim Munir, was hosted for lunch at the White House by President Trump, who went on to thank Munir for the ceasefire."

US prez hints at 25% tariff on Indian imports

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

WITH the August 1 deadline around the corner and no interim deal in sight, President Donald Trump on Tuesday hinted that the US may impose a 20–25% tariff on imports from India. Speaking to reporters, Trump said the final tariff rate is yet to be decided as the two countries continue negotiations on a trade deal ahead of the deadline.

"India has been a good friend, but India has charged basically more tariffs than almost any other country," Trump said aboard Air Force One as he returned to Washington from a five-day visit to Scotland. "You just can't do that."

Donald Trump, US president

Indian government sources had earlier said that New Delhi is not in a hurry to finalise the deal. "We are in negotiations with the US government for the Bilateral Trade Agreement (BTA), but if an interim agreement is reached, it is well and good," a senior government official told this newspaper.

US Trade Representative Jamieson Greer said on Monday that the US needed more time to assess India's willingness to further open its markets. A US trade delegation is scheduled to visit India on August 25 for further talks on the BTA, the first tranche of which both sides had agreed to conclude by September–October this year.

In April, Trump had announced a 26% reciprocal tariff on Indian goods exported to the US, but put it on hold pending trade negotiations.

SC to hear Presidential reference case from August 19

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday fixed a schedule for hearing a Presidential Reference that raised constitutional issues on whether timelines could be imposed for disposing of bills passed by state assemblies, and decided to hold the hearing from August 19 to September 10.

A five-judge Constitution bench headed by Chief Justice B R Gavai, which is examining whether the exercise of discretion by Governors and the President on bills can be subjected to judicially enforceable timelines, asked the parties to file their written submissions by August 12.

The court also appointed advocates Aman Mehta and Nisha Rohatgi as nodal counsels for Union and the parties opposing reference, respectively.

The bench also comprising justices Surya Kant, Vikram Nath, P S Narasimha and A S Chandurkar said it will first hear preliminary objections filed by Kerala and Tamil Nadu questioning the maintainability of the Presidential Reference on August 19 for an hour.

The Centre and states supporting the reference will be heard on August 19, 20, 21 and 26, while those opposing it will be heard on August 28 and September 2, 3 and 9. The court had on April 8 ruled that prolonged inaction by a Governor and/or the President in deciding on bills passed by state assemblies was illegal. Challenging the verdict, President Murmu had moved the SC on May 13.

KOLAR WOMAN HAS BLOOD GROUP NEVER SEEN BEFORE

This discovery not only highlights India's leadership in transfusion medicine, but also underlines the need for robust rare donor registries and research-driven blood services

Dr Ankit Mathur, Rotary Bangalore TTK Blood Centre

AKNISREE KARTHIK @ Bengaluru

A new blood group, previously unidentified anywhere in the world, has been discovered in a South Indian woman from Kolar district in Karnataka. This remarkable case came to light when a 38-year-old woman was admitted for cardiac surgery at a hospital in Kolar.

Her blood group was O Rh+, the most common blood group; however, none of the available O-positive blood units were compatible with her. The hospital escalated the case to the Advanced Immunohematology Reference Laboratory at the Rotary Bangalore TTK Blood Centre for further investigation.

"Using advanced serological techniques, our team found that her blood was 'panreactive', incompatible with all test samples. Recognising this as a possible case of a rare or unknown blood type, the team collected blood samples from 20 of her family members to search for a compatible match, but none of them were a match. The case was managed with utmost care, and with collaborative effort from her physicians and family, her surgery was successfully completed without the need for transfusion," said Dr Ankit Mathur from the Rotary Bangalore TTK Blood Centre. Meanwhile, her and her family's blood samples were sent to the International Blood Group Reference Laboratory (IBGRL), Bristol, UK. Dr Mathur said that ten months of extensive research and molecular testing resulted in the discovery of a previously unknown blood group antigen. P5

Bengali migrant workers in Whitefield claim harassment by cops, some flee out of fear

ANUBHAB ROY @Bengaluru

With Bengali migrant workers in Gurugram being detained or fleeing out of fear, the atmosphere in Whitefield – an area known for its Bengali migrant settlements – grows tense by the day. With events happening near the nation's capital being made public over the internet, Bengali migrants in Bengaluru -- many of whose friends or relatives had been working in Gurugram -- find little hope in carrying on with their livelihoods. The situation is worsened by sporadic, yet similar incidents. From reports of alleged extortion by the police to being accused of being Bangladeshi, the Bengali tongue has slowly become a signpost of persecution.

"It is like fighting crocodiles while standing knee-deep in water," said Rehman (name changed), a native of Murshidabad in West Bengal who moved to the city more than a decade ago, and finds himself in a different land, struggling against forces that are far from native. Rehman, who runs a small mobile repair and photocopy shop and ferries schoolchildren, was allegedly threatened by Varthur Police Station officers, when he refused to pay the monthly bribe collected from every petty shop in the neighbourhood; the amount ranges from Rs 300 to Rs 3,000-4,000.

Since then, officers have allegedly barged into his home around midnight, taken his younger brother (aged 21), an engineering student, on charges of falsification of police verification documents, and threatened to falsely implicate him in other cases if he did not pay them Rs 75,000. Rehman, who fears for his family's livelihood in Bangaluru, has allegedly had to part with his hard-earned money to release his brother. He filed a complaint with the Karnataka State Human Rights Commission on Tuesday.

A Bengali migrant settlement on Balagere Road in Varthur | EXPRESS

Rehman's case, albeit one of the most recent in the city, is far from being the only one. Mabul Sheikh, a native of Palsunda, a village in Nadia district of West Bengal, had his brush with the Central Crime Branch (CCB) in January 2025. One fine day, the CCB allegedly seized his phone and passport, and when he visited their office, he was accused of being Bangladeshi because of his language. When his passport and Aadhaar card were not deemed enough proof of his nationality, a signed letter from his local panchayat was the only thing that could absolve him.

The allegation of being Bangladeshi comes as a dogwhistle against a demographic that largely falls into the cross-section of being Bengali and being Muslim. Like Mabul's case, Kohinoor and Ainoor, two sisters from South 24 Parganas in West Bengal, were stopped from entering an apartment complex, where they worked as domestic workers. Both were accused of being Bangladeshi by the building security personnel, and their documents were flung away. Ainoor was allegedly taken to Varthur Police Station and was accused of being Bangladeshi, and like Mabul, only a signed letter from her local panchayat stood between her and unfair detention. "We live like foreign dogs in this land," was all Kohinoor could mumble as commentary on the situation.

City to host dialogue with Physics Nobel laureates today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AHEAD of the country's first-ever Quantum India Bengaluru Summit, scheduled to be held on Thursday and Friday, the state government will host Nobel laureates in Physics Prof Duncan Haldane (2016 winner) and Prof David Gross (2004) for an exclusive dialogue on Wednesday.

On Tuesday, Minor Irrigation, Science & Technology Minister N S Boseraju chaired a preparatory meeting related to the summit along with Karnataka Science and Technology Promotion Society (KSTePS) Managing Director Sadashiva Prabhu, Indian Institute of Science (IISC) Prof Akshay Naik (co-chair of the summit) and senior officials.

"Our government is laying the groundwork to position Karnataka as India's quantum capital. This dialogue with Nobel laureates will mark the beginning of a long-term roadmap to integrate quantum innovation into Karnataka's development blueprint," the minister said.

With Bengaluru already recognised as the nation's innovation nucleus, Karnataka is accelerating efforts to harness quantum technologies for economic and social transformation. From IT and aerospace to cutting-edge quantum frontiers, the state aims to strengthen its position on the global innovation map, Boseraju said.

The dialogue will facilitate high-level discussions between the Nobel laureates and Karnataka's top officials, including the principal secretaries of Industries, IT & BT and Higher Education. The exchange is expected to pave the way for advancing quantum research, infrastructure and collaborations with global experts.

REDRAWING OF WARDS UNDER GBA FROM AUG 3

DCM says final notification on Nov 1

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Tuesday said the Ward Delimitation Commission will start the work of redrawing ward boundaries under the newly formed Greater Bengaluru Authority from August 3. The final notification for the five new corporations will be published on November 1, he told reporters after holding a meeting with Greater Bengaluru Authority officials.

The DCM, who also holds the Bengaluru Development portfolio, said, "The commission will carry out works like ward boundary identification, receiving objections, etc. for a month during August. The reservation process for the wards will be completed after this. The report will be submitted to the courts once the final report is ready. We will prepare for the elections once these activities are completed."

He also spoke about major decisions like streamlining property tax collection and issuing of e-khata to owners. "There are 24 lakh properties in Bengaluru. Both A- and B-khata properties come under GBA and as a guarantee of the properties, e-khata is being issued. So far, 6.5 lakh e-khatas have been issued. To create awareness about e-khatas, we are organising a massive awareness campaign from October 22 to November 1. We have given directions to make use of teachers, Bescom bill collectors and BBMP workers in this campaign," he said. "We will issue guidelines on getting B-khatas converted to A-khatas from August 15. Details such as eligibility and application process would be released soon," he added.

Speaking on the Green Bengaluru initiative, he said they have received 10,345 suggestion and complaints and 9,700 have been addressed. "CCTV cameras will be installed and penalties will be imposed on people dumping waste," he added.

Hebbal Flyover section to be opened by Aug 15

Shivakumar said they are planning to inaugurate the new section of Hebbal flyover, newly developed Shivananda Circle and multi-storied parking near Gandhi bazaar before August 15. "We have sought a date of August 6 from the CM to open the Hebbal to KR Puram Flyover project," he said.

On BJP State President Vijayendra's criticism that frequent Delhi visits of the CM and DCM was affecting governance, he said, "We are travelling to Delhi on July 31 to meet ambassadors. On August 2, we are attending a programme on the constitution at Vigyan Bhavan."

Tunnel Rd DPR cuts project timeline to 24 months

INDRA S @Bengaluru

TUNNELING for Bengaluru's proposed Tunnel Road project, initially estimated to take 33 months, has now been slashed to 24 months in the final Detailed Project Report (DPR).

While experts call the projection unrealistic, official from Bengaluru Smart Infrastructure Limited (B-SMILE) say the reduced timeline is possible due to the deployment of eight high-speed Tunnel Boring Machines (TBMs), as opposed to the earlier plan to use six medium to average-speed TBMs.

The draft DPR had pegged the total project completion time at 61 months, of which 33 months were dedicated to tunneling. The final DPR, however, brings down the overall project duration to 50 months, with just 24 months assigned for boring through 16.7 km.

Speaking to TNIE, BS Prahallad, Director of B-SMILE, said, "We initially planned for six TBMs with an average cutting speed of 90 metres per month, but the timeline was too long. To reduce the duration, we decided to both add more machines and upgrade to high-speed cutting models. Each high-speed TBM can cut a minimum of 200 meters per month—that's 2.4 kilometers per year, assuming ideal conditions."

"One high-speed TBM can cut approximately 4 km in two years, and since the total tunneling required is a little over 32 km, eight machines can complete it in two years," he explained.

Experts, however, voiced their concerns with regard to timeline. Ashish Verma, professor of transportation systems engineering at IISc, said, "The type of rock or surface you encounter during tunneling is not always predictable. These uncertainties are rarely factored into the timelines. Based on Bengaluru's past experience, especially with Metro tunneling, unexpected challenges are common. Government inefficiency and delays in land acquisition also contribute significantly."

"If adding two TBMs saves nine months, why not add two more and claim it'll be done in a year? It is disappointing that the DPR has arbitrarily determined the construction period. If the assumptions in the DPR are unrealistic, which it is, there will be no credible contractor or developer who will bid for the tenders because of the unrealistic timelines. Has the BBMP considered the cost implications of additional TBMs?", questioned Satya Arikutharam, an independent mobility expert.

Bannerghatta Road should have model footpath: Rao

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BBMP Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao on Tuesday instructed officials to take steps to construct a model footpath on the Bannerghatta Main Road.

He was speaking while inspecting the pavement, potholes, cleanliness and other issues at Dairy Circle on Bannerghatta Main Road in South Zone. "The Metro Pink Line is coming on Bannerghatta Main Road. The footpaths on this route should be constructed on the same pattern and made into a model footpath. Slabs and curb stones should be repaired and the height of footpaths should be made uniform," he instructed officials. "Proper construction of footpaths will increase the number of people using public transport. Therefore, clear the encroachments on footpaths," he said. Noting that there are no bus shelters on the main road, he instructed officials to construct them and set up bus stops where the road is wide.

Irked at dumping of garbage, he told officials to take action to prevent littering on roadsides. "There should be strict punishment for littering," he said.

PETER VIDAL

30TH July : Today's ruling planet is Budha, also known to astronomers as Mercury. He is normally depicted with four hands, symbol of his ability to get involved in almost anything. It' a day to try something new, in fact, we might say, anything new, just as long as it's different from whatever you did in the past.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The risky planetary situation is compounded by lunar formations which create confusion. One option you may wish to consider today is to turn down lively opportunities and go for peace and quiet. A few minutes of cool contemplation or meditation could help you work out what your true purpose is.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Listen to experienced colleagues. Unless you follow cautious advice, you may find that plans or projects already in the pipeline may have to be abandoned because of others' lack of support and assistance. I think you're finding it easier to stand on your own feet, though.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
The correct way for you to go at the moment is towards ethical actions and high standards. Be graceful if others offend you and be charitable if you see that they are in need of your help. Events at work may be just a little muddled, but that's precisely why your clarity of mind will be so useful.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
However much you would like to be the centre of attention, if you are a typical Cancerian you will find it very difficult to be truly selfish this week. Something keeps pulling you back to the need to put others' interests first. And that has to be a good thing!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Mercury's position is still favourable, so what you find out could place an old situation in a new light. In fact, it indicates that you are entering a rather charming phase. If at all possible, please do put extra energy into all professional aspirations.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The Moon is aligned with your seventh solar house, the repository for all Virgoan feelings of partnership and relatedness. In plain English you'd better get on with other people - or else! If you offend someone you might find that they don't fight back - they just give up.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Nobody understands better than you that sometimes, like now, it is prudent to walk away from upsetting situations. You should also observe the old adage that it is best to be magnanimous in victory. That, after all, is the way to turn defeated rivals into permanent friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Quite aside from the difficulties posed by planets influencing both domestic and professional sectors of your chart, others, influencing travel and adventure are utterly favourable. Surprisingly, emotional complications may put you on the right track.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
As Venus, planet of love, departs from its cautious, careful position, a number of points may be cleared up. For a start, older friends are the best, especially where money is concerned. Team up with people who are more experienced than you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
No matter how hard you try to control your financial affairs, you always seem to end up somehow failing to maximise your profits. This is very much an all-or-nothing situation. Hopefully you're a winner rather than a loser. In fact, I'm sure you are!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Life has certainly been an up-and-down experience lately. I know that you may find it hard to believe, but something truly worthwhile will emerge from all the struggles you are going through. You can only go up if you've been down first. Great things await!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You're in a strong position, even though you're just a little more emotional than usual. Let others make the running. There is no need for you to dive in first, if you feel that the waters of life are looking rather too risky. A Fish you may be, but you must still watch out for sharks.

BCom student robs gold from uncle's house for trips with BF

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A BCom student and three others have been arrested by the Kothanur police for stealing over 1 kg of gold ornaments from her uncle's house to fund a lavish lifestyle with her boyfriend. The accused spent several lakhs of rupees on parties and trips, the police said.

The accused are- Sachita, Yashwanth (her boyfriend and classmate), Tanush and Ramprakash (both are Yashwanth's friends). All of them are in their early 20s.

In June first week, Sachita's uncle, B N Srinivas, filed a complaint stating that over 1 kg of gold ornaments kept in his house locker had been stolen. He initially suspected two domestic workers might be involved in the theft, but it was later found out that they were clean. It was found that Sachita was regularly visiting the house over the past six months before the crime came to light, which raised suspicion, the police said.

The police further added that, during interrogation, Sachita confessed that large quantities of gold were kept in her uncle's house and she began stealing the ornaments in phases starting from January.

She used to pass the ornaments to Yashwanth, and he then passed them to his friends Tanush and Ramprakash. The trio used to melt it and convert it into gold bars and sell them. The police have seized ornaments worth Rs 65 lakh and Rs 10 lakh in cash from the accused.

After Ramya, actor Pratham files plaint, says Darshan fans issued death threats

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after former MP and actress Ramya filed a police complaint against disgruntled fans of actor Darshan Thoogudeepa for sending offensive and vulgar messages to her Instagram handle, Kannada Bigg Boss season 4 winner and actor Pratham filed a complaint against notorious rowdy Bakery Raghu and his associates on Tuesday afternoon. He accused them of threatening him at knife-point for speaking against Darshan. Meanwhile, senior actor Shivarajkumar and his wife Geetha extended support to Ramya by condemning the online abuse against her.

Pratham submitted a complaint to Bengaluru Rural SP CK Baba in connection with an incident in Doddaballapur last week. On July 22, film promoter Mahesh had invited him to a puja at Yellamma Temple in Doddaballapur. While returning home around 3.50pm, Yashaswini, Bakery Raghu and a few unidentified people surrounded his car and forcibly took him to an unknown location. They abused him in filthy language and accused him of speaking against Darshan, Pratham said.

"They brandished a dagger and knife. When confronting me, Raghu showed a photograph taken inside jail, claiming to be with Darshan. It was with great difficulty that I managed to escape with my life. It was a serious incident," Pratham alleged in his complaint.

He later told reporters he would begin an indefinite hunger protest at the SP's office till Darshan comes there and ensures his supporters stop targeting other actors.

He has also given details of his friends who were witness to the incident, and sought police protection as he fears for his life. He stated that for the past week, close associates of Darshan have been trying to convince him not to pursue the matter.

Also, since Monday, more than 500 fan pages, including Darshan's official fan pages such as D Dynasty, D Kingdom, D Universe, and Devil Kingdom, have been publicly defaming him online.

Bakery Raghu was at Bengaluru Central Prison in Parappana Agrahara when Darshan was remanded in judicial custody in September 2011, for allegedly beating his wife Vijayalakshmi and threatening her with his licensed revolver.

Meanwhile, actor Shivarajkumar, in a social media post has stated that words used against Ramya are condemnable and "it was not right to speak that way about any woman, and we must not tolerate it. It is very important to respect women -- as mothers, sisters, daughters, wives, and above all, as individuals.

Social media is a powerful tool; it should be used for one's growth, not to spread hatred, abuse, or jealousy through offensive language. Your stand is right, Ramya. We will always stand with you".

Strict action, warns Home Minister

Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara told the media on Tuesday that stringent action will be taken against those who have sent obnoxious messages to actress Ramya. "Not only Ramya, such abuse towards any woman will not be tolerated. Bengaluru City Police Commissioner will instruct his subordinates about the action to be taken against the miscreants. I will also give necessary instructions to police officers," he added.

Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh said the case was handed over to CCB. "The case will be probed by a Deputy Commissioner of Police rank officer under the supervision of Joint Commissioner of Police. Stringent action will be taken aginst the accused," Singh told.

Siddu meets party legislators to address concerns, grants; I've no problem, says Shivakumar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday started his four-day exercise of meeting Congress MLAs to address their concerns along with the concerned district in-charge ministers. The exercise has, however, drew criticism from the Opposition who hit out at the CM for meeting only ruling party legislators.

Former home minister and BJP MLA Araga Jnanendra hit out at the CM saying, "Siddaramaiah is the CM for all-party MLAs, but he has proved to be partisan (by meeting only Congress MLAs)."

After taking part in the meeting with the CM, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara admitted that it was crucial to have coordination between MLAs. "The discussion was mainly on the Rs 50-crore grant released (under CM's Infrastructure Development Programme as Siddaramaiah announced Rs 100 crore for every assembly constituency). The ratio of the grants to be shared between the works of PWD and RDPR and how much should be given to MLAs' discretion was discussed," the minister told reporters, adding that politics was not discussed. "The meeting was only about grants and development works and unity (among MLAs). There were small differences among us, but we will work in harmony in the interest of the development of our districts," he added.

According to informed sources, the differences between the two Congress camps—one identified with CM Siddaramaiah's camp and the other with DCM DK Shivakumar's camp—also came up for discussion after Shivakumar's relative and Kunigal MLA Dr Ranganath raised the issue. The CM advised them to work in coordination, as there will be no disparity in the disbursal of grants for development.

CM Siddaramaiah meets ministers and Congress MLAs in Bengaluru on Tuesday

The CM's meetings at Vidhana Soudha are being held after AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala met over 100 Congress MLAs and ministers recently.

Siddaramaiah, along with his economic adviser Basavaraja Rayareddi and Additional Chief Secretary Anjum Parvez, held deliberations with the MLAs of Chamarajanagar, Mysuru, Tumakuru, Kodagu, and Hassan districts. The ministers concerned from the districts, including Dr HC Mahadevappa, K Venkatesh, Dr G Parameshwara, and KN Rajanna, were present.

The status of major development works underway in these districts, the amount of money spent on agriculture and the grants released, and the time frame for completion of works were part of the discussion, stated a release from the Chief Minister's Office.

Discussions on grants released for every sector and department and the status of implementation of projects announced in the budget were also held.

Siddaramaiah received information about the works undertaken with the MLAs' grants, submitted proposals for the works to be done in the constituency, and gave suggestions. The CM also drew the attention of the MLAs to the positive impact on the district's economy due to the successful implementation of the five guarantees. "MLAs and ministers should participate in meaningful debates in all Karnataka Development Programme meetings," he advised.

DKS kept at bay?

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar was not present during these meetings. This created a buzz in political corridors, but Shivakumar clarified that CM Siddaramaiah is using powers vested with him to hold meetings with MLAs. "Calling a legislators' meeting is well within the power of the CM. What is wrong? AICC General Secretary Surjewala, who had held meetings with MLAs, has given his feedback to the CM. The legislators' meeting is regarding that. I have no problem with the meeting... I'm not sure why it is troubling the media," he said.

Asked why he was not invited for the meeting, he maintained, saying, "I have no issues with the meeting. I will hold a separate meeting with Bengaluru legislators, as we have a different agenda for Bengaluru city. I have also held discussions with many MLAs already."

On BJP's criticism, he said, "Let them set their house in order before commenting on other parties. There is factionalism in BJP."

But Cooperation Minister KN Rajanna said that the DCM's post is not a constitutional post. "I agree that as KPCC president, Shivakumar should have taken part, as the party and the government should be in good coordination. I don't know what transpired between them (CM & DCM)", Rajanna said.

Dharmasthala: SIT begins exhumation at 'burial site'

DIVYA CUTINHO @ Mangaluru

THE Special Investigation Team (SIT) on Tuesday started digging at sites where the witness-complainant said he had allegedly buried bodies of rape and murder victims in Dharmasthala village. But the witness-complainant and SIT officials found no trace of a body or remains at the first site on the first day of exhumation.

On Tuesday morning, a meeting was held at the SIT office in Belthangady under DIG MN Anucheth, while Assistant Commissioner (AC) Stella Varghese arrived at the Dharmasthala police station. Forensic experts and more than 10 labourers were called in. The SIT submitted details of the alleged sites to the AC and proceeded to the first site for exhumation along with the complainant around 1 pm.

An officer associated with the SIT, on condition of anonymity, told TNIE that they started the exhumation at the first spot identified by the complainant. "It is near the Snana Ghatta on the banks of Nethravathi river. We will check the veracity of his claims based on the outcome at the first spot. We will keep digging till all the 13 spots are covered. We will inspect other spots claimed by him after the exhumation at the spots that have already been identified," he said.

SIT officials take the witness-complainant to a spot identified for exhumation near Nethravathi Ghat on Tuesday; (below) Excavator brought in for digging

The labourers were taken to the first spot and as exhumation began amid rain, water started seeping into the pit disrupting the process. An hour later, the SIT officials had to bring in an excavator to continue the exhumation. "Initially, digging was disrupted due to water seeping from the ground as the spot is close to the river. We will continue digging till the complainant is satisfied and we are convinced that there is no need to proceed further at the spot. Once the exhumation is completed at the first site, we will move to the next one," an officer said.

A canine squad was also called to the spot. Even after digging for almost 8 feet deep and 15 feet wide, there was no trace of any body or remains at the first spot and the exhumation came to an end on the first day. The process, which stopped at 6 pm, is expected to continue on Wednesday.

SIT officials, AC Stella Varghese, Belthangady Tahsildar Pruthvi Sanikam and Forensic Sciences Laboratory and scene-of-crime officials were present at the site. SIT sleuths video documented the entire process. Anucheth also visited the spot and held discussions with the officials.

KHARGE TO RETURN TO K'TAKA POLITICS? CONGMEN WONDER

He's capable of occupying any post: Parameshwara

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said on Tuesday that there is nothing wrong with AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge returning to state politics. Speaking to media persons in Bengaluru, Parameshwara said Kharge is in a position to decide who should be made the chief minister, and he is capable of occupying any post.

Dr Parameshwara said it is not correct to misinterpret Kharge's remarks. "Kharge has a vast political experience of 50 years and is capable of occupying any post. Those talking about AICC president Kharge have not reached that stature," Dr Parameshwara said, adding that he is among the senior politicians, not just in Congress, but in the entire country.

On revoking the suspension of senior police officers suspended after the stampede outside M Chinnaswamy Stadium on June 4, Dr Parameshwara said that the decision to revoke the suspension and continue with departmental inquiry was taken after they discussed the Justice Michael D'Cunha's report in the cabinet.

One of the suspended IPS officers has approached the Central Administrative Tribunal (CAT), and his suspension was not revoked, he said. If the CAT directs the State Government to revoke his suspension, it will be considered, he said. He said senior officer B Dayananda will not be made the commissioner again, and he will be given a posting as per his rank.

Police directed to act against black marketing of fertilisers

Dr Parameshwara said police have been directed to book cases against those selling fertilisers in the black market. Agriculture Minister has also directed the Deputy Commissioner and Agriculture Department officers to take action against those selling fertilizers in the black market, he said.

Dharmasthala case

On the ongoing investigation in the alleged mass burial case in Dharmastala village in Dakshina Kannada district, he said the government has taken the case seriously. The SIT is probing the case, and it is not appropriate for anyone to speak about it at this stage, he said.

Congress to protest poll roll 'manipulation' next week

ENS @ Bengaluru

SENIOR Congress leaders, including Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi, AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar are likely to take part in a massive protest in Bengaluru on Monday, against the alleged manipulation of the electoral process in the state during the 2024 Lok Sabha polls.

A senior Congress leader said a meeting has been called in the Congress office on Wednesday to discuss details of the protest outside the office of the Chief Electoral Officer in Bengaluru. Rahul Gandhi, Siddaramaiah and Shivakumar have made allegations of manipulation of the electoral process during the Lok Sabha polls. The CM had stated that in several constituencies across the state, Congress workers reported sudden and suspicious additions of new voters, while names of long-time voters were removed without justification. Congress won nine of 28 Lok Sabha seats in the state, while the BJP won 17 and JDS won two seats.

CLEARING THE AIR

B'luru, D'gere, Hubballi-Dharwad see reduction in PM10 levels

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

BENGALURU, Davanagere, and Hubballi-Dharwad have made modest strides in improving air quality under the Union Government's ambitious National Clean Air Programme (NCAP), according to the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEF&CC). This was revealed as a response by the ministry in the ongoing Lok Sabha session.

While Karnataka received significant funding and saw measurable improvements in several cities, challenges in full implementation and fund utilisation remain.

Launched in 2019, NCAP aims to reduce air pollution levels across 130 non-attainment and million-plus cities through city-specific Clean Air Action Plans (CAPs). Karnataka has been actively participating, with the Centre sanctioning Rs 597.52 crore from FY 2019-20 to FY 2024-25 and allocating Rs 194.41 crore for 2025-26. However, only Rs 14.2 crore has been released so far this year, raising concerns over the slow pace of fund disbursement and on-ground implementation of the programme.

According to the ministry, Bengaluru, Davanagere and Hubballi-Dharwad have reported a 20-40% reduction in PM10 levels in FY 2024-25 compared to the base year 2017-18. Also, Davanagere and Kalaburagi have met the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS), with PM10 concentrations below 60 gm.

However, not all cities in Karnataka are faring equally well. Kalaburagi, though meeting NAAQS now, is the only Karnataka city listed in the 20% improvement category, showing that more sustained efforts are needed. The absence of cities achieving over 40% improvement further emphasises the gap between targets and outcomes.

The ministry highlighted that recent policy revisions mandate the use of funds in five key intervention areas, including mechanical road sweeping, greening of traffic corridors, dust control on roads, and traffic decongestion. Karnataka's Urban Local Bodies (ULBs), in collaboration with the state government and the MoEF&CC, have signed MoUs to ensure accountability and convergence with other government schemes like AMRUT and Swachh Bharat Mission.

Nationally, 103 of 130 cities under NCAP reported a reduction in PM10 levels, with 25 cities achieving more than 40% reduction. A total of Rs 13,036.52 crore has been released as performance-linked grants to support these initiatives across India.

No urea, farmer protests by eating mud

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Koppal

Exasperated at the shortage of urea, a farmer in Koppal took to an extreme form of protest – by eating mud.

Chandrappa, who hails from Kunikeri tanda, and others had queued up from 4 am till 4 pm on Saturday but had to go empty- handed. The picture of a mud-eating Chandrappa went viral on social media platforms on Monday and Tuesday, and BJP's Raita Morcha members offered two bags of urea to him. On Monday and Tuesday, hundreds of farmers were seen lining up at Koppal APMC to buy urea and all they got were two bags per person.

Chandrappa said, "This is the right time to use urea in our fields and the government should provide it to all farmers, otherwise we will have to eat mud. Urea shortage is creating unrest among us. We request the government to provide enough urea for all farmers and do the needful."

An official from the Koppal Agriculture department said, "Farmers should use urea sparingly and we have got some bags and farmers should start using natural fertilizers no instead of urea."

SC raps TN for naming 2,000 in ex-minister trial

Says complete fraud of judicial system

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@New Delhi

The Supreme Court on Tuesday slammed the Tamil Nadu government for trying to delay the trial in cases involving former state minister V Senthil Balaji by implicating more than 2,000 people as accused in a cash-for-jobs scam, after observing that it was a complete fraud on the judicial system.

V Senthil Balaji

"We would like to know that besides the minister, who were the alleged brokers or middlemen in the case? Who were the officers who acted on the recommendations of the minister? Who were the members of the selection committee? Who were the authorities who gave the appointment," the bench of Justices Surya Kant and Joymalya Bagchi, told Abhishek Manu Singhvi and Amit Anand Tiwari, senior lawyer appearing for the TN government.

The apex court asked, "Poor persons who were coerced by your minister or by his henchmen to pay something ₹5,000, 10,000, 1 lakh, 2 lakh, you are more keen to prosecute them so that in the entire lifetime of the minister, the trial never comes to an end? That is your modus operandi?"

Rapping up the TN govt for doing so, the apex court observed, "You are implicating these so-called bribe givers, somebody trying to get his son employed, gave ₹1 lakh to ₹2 lakh, you're making everyone an accused...2000 accused in 2 cases?". The bench of the top court called for listing all matters pending before the top court involving Balaji and posted the case for further hearing to July 31, Wednesday.

The top court was hearing a plea filed by Balaji challenging the Madras High Court's March 28 order rejecting his petition against clubbing several supplementary charge sheets against with the case involving the ex-minister.

IMD warns of strong winds; early but deficit rain in S K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH the India Meteorological Department (IMD) forecasting strong winds and moderate rainfall in most parts of Karnataka for the end of July, data from the agency shows that most parts of South Interior Karnataka (SIK) have recorded deficit rainfall.

The IMD also issued a warning for the ports and fisherfolk of Karwar, Mangaluru, Panambur, Honnavar, Bhatkal, Gangoli and Malpe, warning them of squally weather with wind speeds of 50-60 kmph.

As per IMD data, while all regions of coastal Karnataka received excess rainfall till July 29, five regions of North Interior Karnataka received deficit rainfall: Belagavi (-36%), Bidar (-68%), Dharwad (-7%), Kalaburagi (-34%) and Koppal (-85%).

The regions most affected are in South Interior Karnataka. Bengaluru's HAL Airport observatory recorded a deficit of 29%; Bengaluru city (-42%); Chamarajanagar (-52%); Hassan (-208%); Chintamani (-66%); Mysuru (-99%); and Shivamogga (-131%).

IMD Bengaluru senior scientist CS Patil said most parts of South Interior Karnataka had recorded deficit rainfall last year also. While this is an advantage for urban areas with little or no flooding, it is worrisome for the agricultural sector, affecting cropping and harvesting patterns. Usually, the monsoon graph stabilises with good August rain, but it needs to be studied, he added.

The IMD also recorded a drop in Bengaluru city's maximum temperature over the past few days. On July 28, the city recorded a maximum of 26.6 degrees Celsius, a dip of 1.4 degrees Celsius. Normal temperature is 28 degrees Celsius. Till 5.30pm Tuesday, the city had recorded a maximum of 27 degrees Celsius.

Weathermen also noted a drop in the minimum temperature. At 8.30am Tuesday, IMD recorded minimum temperature of 19.3 degrees Celsius, a dip of 0.7 degrees Celsius from the normal minimum temperature. Monday recorded similar weather, with 19 degrees Celsius.

Kerala BJP rejects C'garh's claim on nuns

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @KOCHI

Rejecting Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Vishnu Deo Sai's claims justifying the police action against two nuns, the BJP in Kerala on Tuesday distanced itself from his statement and asserted that the sisters were not involved in any human trafficking or forced conversion.

BJP Kerala president Rajeev Chandrasekhar told reporters in Delhi that the party would make all efforts to secure the release of the nuns — Sr Vandana and Sr Preethy Mary — and ensure their safe return. "Our top priority is to protect the nuns and ensure justice," he said, adding the party's state general secretary Anoop Antony is in Chhattisgarh coordinating with the authorities there.

Chandrasekhar said he would himself visit Chhattisgarh if required. "These are two nuns from the Syro-Malabar Church. They were accompanying three adult women who were going to get jobs. We have made it very clear to the government of Chhattisgarh that they were not involved in either trafficking or conversion," he said.

BJP leaders from Kerala, Anoop and Shaun George, met the Chhattisgarh CM and sought a fair and speedy legal process. "There was a lot of ambiguity, but after talking to the CM we have clarity on the issue," Anoop told TNIE. The party has arranged legal support for the nuns, and a bail plea has been moved in the sessions court, with a hearing scheduled for Wednesday.

Meanwhile, delegations of the ruling LDF and the Opposition UDF reached Chhattisgarh. The UDF delegation, comprising MPs Benny Behanan, Francis George and N K Premachandran besides MLAs Roji M John and Saji Joseph, met the nuns on Tuesday. They alleged that the police initially denied them access while allowing the BJP leaders to meet the nuns, prompting a protest outside the police station.

Karnataka drops move to extend IT work hours

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State IT/ITeS Employees Union (KITU) on Tuesday stated that in a victory for IT sector employees, the state government has withdrawn its proposal to extend working hours in the IT/ITeS industry, following intense opposition by the union.

The proposed Karnataka Shops and Commercial Establishments (Amendment) Bill, 2025, aimed at increasing working hours under the 1961 Act, was contested by KITU during a stakeholder meeting on June 18. The union had termed the move a violation of workers' right to personal time and warned it would not allow such changes under any circumstances.

Over the past six weeks, KITU organised widespread protests in IT parks, on public roads, and outside company offices across Bengaluru. The sustained campaign pressured the government to back down.

Additional Labour Commissioner G Manjunath conveyed the withdrawal of the proposal to KITU office bearers in a meeting on Tuesday. "This is a historic moment. It proves that when workers unite, even powerful attempts to dilute labour protections can be defeated," the union said in a statement.

Politicians responsible for exploitation in police stations, says court

YATHIRAJU @Bengaluru

THE Special Court for Lokayukta Cases on Tuesday made scathing observations on how police stations have lost people's trust while rejecting the bail plea of a woman sub-inspector accused of bribery.

Savithri Bai JK, an SI at Govindapura police station, is charged with accepting a bribe of Rs 1.25 lakh by the Lokayukta police.

Judge KM Radhakrishna observed that police stations are no longer meant for curtailing crimes and ensuring a healthy atmosphere in society. Rather, they are daring enough to justify corrupt activities as if they have paid for their postings and recovering the same, which is a dangerous signal. This also indicates how the people's representatives who are ruling us are responsible for the present compelling atmosphere and exploitation, the judge said.

"The word 'police' was like a mother faith for everybody, but losing such faith and hopes by the common man because of the deep-rooted corruption in police stations is the most unfortunate and unexpected," the judge added.

Savithri Bai was trapped by the Lokayukta police on July 21 while allegedly accepting a bribe of Rs 1.25 lakh from the complainant, Mohammed Yunus, saying that Rs 1 lakh for a higher officer and Rs 25,000 for herself, from him to close the crime registered against him.

Referring to the conduct of Savithri Bai, Judge Radhakrishna observed that this kind of approach not only made the common man fear, facing untold problems, but also indicated the serious impact on society, even more than heinous offences. By which, every one of us need to understand that getting redressal of problems by the common man at the hands of the police nowadays has become a dream.

One Anjali registered a complaint against Yunus on the charges of criminal intimidation, causing voluntary hurt and others. After this, Savithri Bai released Yunus on station bail. Subsequently, he and his wife were in touch with the SI. Later, Yunus lodged the complaint on April 23, 2025, with the Lokayukta police alleging that Savithri Bai demanded and obtained Rs 25,000 illegal gratification to enlarge him on station bail. On July 10 and 17, she had demanded a bribe of Rs 3 lakh from him to close the crime against him. Further, on the request, she scaled down her demand for Rs 1 lakh for a higher officer and Rs 25,000 for herself, in all Rs 1.25 lakh. The prosecution pressed for the custodial interrogation of the accused to avoid the possibility of tampering with the evidence and threats to the witnesses since she is a police officer.

Karnataka HC imposes exemplary cost of ₹10L on persistent litigant

THE Karnataka High Court imposed an exemplary cost of Rs 10 lakh on the legal representatives of the land that was acquired nearly four decades ago in 1986 for Gavipuram Extension HBCS Layout, for filing a petition for the ninth round, suppressing the previous rounds of litigation.

Justice M Nagaprasanna imposed the cost on Gangamma and four others, while dismissing the petition filed by them. "If the petition is now entertained on any score, it would amount to putting a premium on litigative persistence of the petitioners and rewarding abuse of the process and tacit fraud played on this court, as this forms the ninth petition on the same cause of action, seeking the very same prayer, differently worded, after the dismissal of eight rounds of litigation, all of which are suppressed in the subject petition", the court observed. The petitioners are said to be the legal representatives of the late Venkata Bhovi and Hanuma Bhovi, who are said to have been granted 2 acres and 20 guntas of land in Sy. No. 26 of Nagadevanahalli in Kengeri Hobli in 1979. In 1986, a preliminary notification was issued under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, to acquire the said land along with other properties for the formation of a residential layout by Gavipuram Extension House Building Cooperative Society Limited. The final notification was issued in 1987.

Accordingly, compensation of Rs 65,000 per acre and Rs 15,000 per acre for solatium was awarded. However, considering the representations, the land was dropped from the acquisition in 1993. The petitioners filed this petition seeking directions declaring that the land question is deemed to be withdrawn from preliminary notification.

The counsel of Cooperative Society submitted that the petition has to be dismissed with exemplary costs, as it is on the face of it an abuse of the process of law, as the family of original grantees are before this court for the eighth time. The court observed that during eight rounds of litigation, this ground was not taken, and on a new plea, the entire acquisition process is challenged all over again, notwithstanding the challenge being rejected not once, but eight times. Therefore, the petitioners are guilty of suppression of material facts and have approached this court with soiled hands.

No more poll duty for anganwadi workers: Min

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE state government has decided to exempt anganwadi workers from election duties, said Women and Child Development Minister Lakshmi Hebbalkar. With this, a long-standing demand by anganwadi workers and various organisations has been fulfilled.

The decision was taken following discussions with Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneesh. It comes ahead of the launch of pre-primary (Government Montessori) classes in anganwadi centres, scheduled to begin in October.

Hebbalkar said an official government order will be issued soon. She added that the move aims to ease the pressure on anganwadi workers as they prepare to take on new responsibilities with the introduction of early education classes.

Amid fears, locals seek relocation of stray dogs

BEAT police officers nearby made a desperate attempt to rescue Seethappa and rushed him to a nearby hospital. But he had sustained critical injuries and was declared brought dead. Based on a complaint filed by Seethappa's son, a case of unnatural death (UDR) was registered.

Dr Manohar, Assistant Director, Animal Husbandry Department, BBMP Yelahanka Zone, said, "The victim's family informed us that Seethappa was slightly mentally unstable and would often venture out at odd hours. He had wrapped himself in a blanket and was roaming the streets around 3 am. The stray dogs charged at him and bit him repeatedly. It appears that he died of shock. A compensation of Rs 1 lakh will be provided to his family as per BBMP norms," he added.

The gory images of bites and scar marks on the victim shocked the residents in the locality, who fear more such attacks from the strays. They have requested officials to relocate the dogs from the area. But officials told them that as per the Animal Birth Control Rules and other norms, stray dogs cannot be relocated to another place, as it may lead to territorial aggression and more incidents of stray dog bites.

INDIA, MALDIVES HEDGE BETS PRAGMATICALLY AMID TRUMPIAN UNCERTAINTY

FROM capturing power on an 'India Out' plank two years ago to describing India as the closest and most trusted partner now, Maldivian President Mohamed Muizzu's geopolitical pendulum has swung sharply to replace partisanship with pragmatism. Having realised that his Chinese fixation had not quite contributed to the economic easing he was hoping for, Muizzu slowly warmed up to India, inviting Prime Minister Narendra Modi for the country's 60th Independence Day celebrations on July 26.

For his part, Modi signalled the reset in ties with a ₹4,850-crore line of credit for Maldives and a new framework for expanding cooperation in trade, defence, infrastructure and digital connectivity. The financial aid is in Indian rupees, the first such rupee-denominated line of credit to the Maldives, and is expected to be spent on several infrastructure projects. The two sides also signed an amended agreement on reducing Maldives' annual debt repayment obligations by as much as 40 percent. The relief came at a time when Maldives is grappling with a dollar squeeze. Muizzu thanked India for being the first responder in crises and extending 'pivotal' help in dealing with economic challenges and liquidity crunch. The nations also exchanged drafts for a free trade agreement that they expect to conclude quickly. Maldives already has an FTA with China.

India's first responder approach during times of humanitarian distress is a spearhead of its diplomatic outreach in its neighbourhood and beyond. As recently as last week, it offered to airlift students singed by an aircraft crash into a Dhaka school for advanced treatment in India. Over the years, India has also contributed resources to prevent or mitigate regional and international crises as a first responder.

Pragmatically choosing not to put all his eggs in one basket, Modi met the entire gamut of political leadership in Maldives, including opposition leaders. For, the Trumpian world order is anything but predictable. Global leaders are struggling to deal with the Tughlaqian tariffs that are expected to kick in on August 1; the bending of facts to suit one man's whims, which, among other things, re-hyphenated India with Pakistan; and the callous insensitivity to the Gaza genocide. Being nimble-footed in diplomacy is the only way to deal with the resultant churn.

APPLY STRICT PENALTIES ON TROLLS ABUSING RAMYA

THE Supreme Court's searing observations on the Karnataka High Court's bail order for actor Darshan Thogudeepa restored a sense of faith in the people's understanding of the legal system. The SC questioned the high court's discretion, asking whether similar magnanimous parameters are applied to the common citizen too. This was reflected in actress-politician Ramya's post hailing the top court as a "ray of hope for the common people of India" that would deliver justice to the family of Renukaswamy, Darshan's ardent fan the Sandalwood superstar is accused of arranging the torture and killing of in June 2024. The actor is back on movie sets after the HC allowed him bail on medical grounds in October 2024 and regular bail in December 2024. Ramya, a former Congress MP also known as Divya Spandana, now finds herself the target of an obscene troll campaign, with Darshan's fans issuing rape and death threats.

It is not uncommon for women politicians and celebrities who are vocal about their opinions to face hostile comments threatening violence. This display of a misogynistic mindset characterises those who join online mob attacks, being confident of the anonymity provided by social media platforms. Ramya should be applauded for filing a complaint against 43 Instagram accounts and speaking up against Darshan's fans who are reported to have targeted upcoming actors and their families earlier. Actor Pratham claims Darshan's fans threatened him with a knife for talking about the actor, revealing Sandalwood's divisions. While actors are entitled to undying devotion from diehard fans, they also have the responsibility of reining in rowdy elements who cross the line of civility.

Bail for Darshan, who goes by the nickname DBoss, his friend and prime accused Pavithra Gowda, and his 15 supporters split Kannada society. It would not be wrong to surmise that anomalous handling of the bail petitions gave the actor's fans the audacity to target a woman celebrity while securing local legal support. It is heartening that the Karnataka State Women's Commission has taken up a suo motu case and other actors have rallied to support Ramya. While Karnataka Home Minister G Parameshwara has promised action against the abusive fans, saying a 'full stop' will be put to such transgressions, it is strict penal action against those who indulge in online trolling that will serve as a future deterrent.

QUICK TAKE

THE FALL OF 2025

AN expanded screening system has significantly delayed interview slots for American student visas this year. Indian families are getting worried as their children's futures are being held hostage to last-minute uncertainties. The foreign ministry has informed Rajya Sabha it has taken up the issue with the US government—but that's about all it can do. The trend of fewer Indian students heading to the US is clear, especially to the high-paid consultants the families depend on. It will be good if the change forces Indian students to explore other options and learn new languages, and even better if it powers the discourse to substantially improve affordable higher education at home.

Analyses of bridge failures are shared across the world. In India, enquiry panels examine mishaps under a cloak of secrecy. As a result, we learn nothing and fail to improve processes

A BLUEPRINT FOR BUILDING BRIDGES TO LAST

AMITABHA GHOSHAL

Former President, Consulting Engineers Association of India; lifetime achievement awardee, ING, International Association for Bridge and Structural Engineering

BRIDGES are the most important element in a surface transport network. Once built, they are extremely difficult to replace and it becomes challenging even to close them for a few days for essential repair work. A sudden failure disturbs normal life, affects development and causes economic losses. So it's important for the public to be aware of the reasons for their failure and raise voices to prevent them.

Bridges have failed across the world for long. In developed countries, such failures are analysed, the studies shared and the lessons recorded to prevent recurrences. In India, the trend has been to form enquiry committees without checking the technical competence of the members and hide the proceedings in confidentiality, keeping the public uninformed. Reports are often allowed to 'disappear' to protect those responsible.

The classical case of the Tacoma Narrows bridge failure in the US in 1940 was instantly shared across the world; the video of the failure became standard teaching material for engineering students across the world. The result: there has been no such failure ever and every engineer knows that a lightweight, long-span bridge needs to be checked for aerodynamic stability and model tests have to be done in a laboratory.

The failure of the West Gate bridge in Australia in 1970 was similarly explored; the enquiry commission came out with a comprehensive analytical report that became a bible for the makers of design codes across the world. People came to know of the problems with thin-walled box girders made with steel plates that had become the favourite of engineers trying to cut steel consumption. Such failures never recurred.

In our country, the much publicised failure of the Morvi bridge, an unstiffened suspension bridge that tends to wobble with people walking on the deck, was widely circulated by the media. Despite the high casualties, we have not learned the lesson—none of the several unstiffened suspension bridges in the lower Himalayas have been intensively inspected or their rehabilitation initiated, as far as public knowledge indicates.

The spectacular failure of the Majherhat bridge in Kolkata has been all but forgotten. No analytical studies were done and no mandatory notification issued to authorities across the country to ensure that the wearing coat on the bridge deck should not be allowed to go beyond design thickness—a common folly of bridge maintenance teams and widely believed to be the root cause of the failure. We can expect to witness more such failures.

MANDAR PARDIKAR

Technical knowledge of bridges is globally shared and countries follow identical design norms that are openly shared and updated. Bridges of an earlier era used to be girders put on piers in the form of beams or trusses, supported on bearings put on piers. The need to elongate spans led to the use of arches and bowstring girders, such as for the Sydney Harbour bridge.

With a thrust on sustainability after the Second World War, the choice moved to bridges supported by cables. Across the world, cable-stayed bridges (Signature bridge in Delhi) and extra-dosed bridges (Nivedita Setu in Kolkata) have become popular. With these changes in technology, engineering knowledge needs upgrading. There have been widely-circulated reports of distress observed on cables across the world; for example, a bridge in Genoa named after its fabled Italian designer Riccardo Morandi had a spectacular failure due to corrosion of cables.

For understanding the reasons for bridge failures, one has to first recognise the various types of failure. There are failures that happen after years of operation, sometimes due to inadequate maintenance. They can also result from adopting a technology without a proper appreciation of long-term deterioration not accounted for in the design. Cable-supported bridges come under this category, as there is inadequate understanding of the deterioration of cables that are subjected to constant exposure to rain, sun and frost; the protective layer on cables by epoxy chemicals and UV-protected sheathings are yet to reach perfection.

In our country, of late, failures during and immediately after construction are becoming commonplace. Although official investigation results are not made public, the evident reasons are that the construction agencies do not always have the requisite experience, and more often the responsibility is transferred to subcontractors with little experience after the job has been secured based on the past capabilities of the original selected contractor.

The list of the apparent faultlines that have made the country a claimant for maximum bridge failures will be long, but let us highlight the important ones.

• The practice of choosing the lowest-cost bidder, despite official claims of disregarding it, leads to awarding contracts at unworkable prices. That is the main motivation for compromising on the quality of materials, deployment of unskilled work teams and adoption of unsafe practices—often with tacit consent of the supervising authority. Adoption of quality-based selection for specialised jobs should be the norm.

• In engineering, procurement and construction contracts, the authorities must check the credential of the design consultants and sub-contractors of the successful bidders as deficiency in capability can lead to failures.

• The agencies deployed, including academic bodies entrusted with proof-checking the design, must be made accountable when failure occurs.

• Every important bridge must have a maintenance manual created with the help of the designers and its implementation must be mandatory, with penalties fixed for non-compliance.

• Budgets need to be allotted for maintenance and staff identified to carry out systematic maintenance. Updating the skills of those deployed for bridge work on a regular basis by agencies like the Institution of Engineers, Consulting Engineers Association and Association of Consulting Civil Engineers under regulatory bodies like the All India Council for Technical Education is essential.

It is unfortunate that in our country, engineering is not yet regulated as a profession. Any graduate from an engineering college is entitled to issue construction documents and approve construction work from day one, unlike other professionals like lawyers, accountants and doctors. An Engineers Bill, in the works for more than 50 years, is yet to become a reality.

Engineers—whether in private organisations like consultancies and contractors, or with public authorities—require upgrading of skills by selected agencies throughout their careers. The ultimate goal is to implement safe practices and guarantee an optimum use of our poor country's resources.

SYSTEMIC SURGERY FOR SMALL FIRMS

TULSI JAYAKUMAR

Professor, Economics & Policy and Executive Director, Centre for Family Business & Entrepreneurship at Bhavan's SPJIMR

INDIA'S manufacturing sector appears to be on the cusp of a revival. According to this week's print of the Index of Industrial Production, manufacturing grew by a promising 3.9 percent in June. Fifteen of the 23 industry groups under the second level of industrial classification posted positive annual growth in June 2025.

The Production-Linked Incentive (PLI) scheme has been credited for much of this revival. In July, minister of state for commerce and industry Jitin Prasada informed the Lok Sabha that PLI schemes, with an outlay of ₹1.97 lakh crore across 14 sectors, had attracted ₹1.76 lakh crore in investments by March. These resulted in production increases exceeding ₹16.5 lakh crore and generated over 12 lakh jobs.

Electronics—especially mobile phone manufacturing—and pharmaceuticals have emerged as consistent success stories. The PLI scheme helped India move from being a net importer of bulk drugs (₹1,930 crore in 2021-22) to a net exporter (₹2,280 crore in 2024-25).

This targeted strategy, aimed at fostering global champions and reducing import dependence, has undeniably positioned India as a serious manufacturing contender. Yet, a critical question lingers: in helping industrial giants, are we overlooking the micro, small, and medium enterprises (MSME)—the silent-but-vital engine of inclusive growth?

PLIs are designed to attract large-scale investments in high-tech industries with thresholds largely suited to established players. While their growth is vital for competitiveness and innovation, the benefits don't always reach the broader MSME ecosystem. This risks creating a dual economy—gleaming high-tech manufacturing hubs alongside a struggling MSME sector, much like the skyscrapers and slums of Mumbai.

MSMEs are not mere ancillary units. They form the bedrock of India's economic fabric. As per data up to July 2024, MSMEs contributed above 30 percent of India's gross value added. They are crucial to India's trade ambitions, accounting for 45.79 percent of India's exports in May 2024, with MSME exports surging from ₹3.95 lakh crore in 2020-21 to an impressive ₹12.39 lakh crore in 2024-25. Crucially, they remain the nation's foremost job creators after agriculture, employing an estimated 203.9 million people as of July 2024. Their reach extends deeply into semi-urban and rural areas, providing livelihoods and fostering decentralised economic development.

Despite this undeniable power, MSMEs continue to grapple with fundamental systemic challenges that the current manufacturing push, with its PLI focus, is not adequately addressing. Lack of access to affordable credit is the most pressing issue. A Niti Aayog report in May highlighted a persistent credit gap estimated at ₹80 lakh crore, often filled by informal sources with exorbitant interest rates of 30-60 percent.

A more recent SIDBI report pointed out that this reliance on informal credit sources disproportionately affects micro enterprises, with 12 percent of them (compared to 3 percent and 2 percent for small and medium enterprises) forced to such usury. Only 16

WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

> Though they have pushed overall manufacturing growth, production-linked incentives help large companies more than smaller ones. For sustainable growth, grassroots innovation and better job creation, smaller enterprises need to be boosted. But the support they need is specific to their challenges percent of total credit disbursed in 2024-25 went to micro firms, despite them constituting over 95 percent of the registered MSMEs. This imbalance starves them of the working capital and investment. Beyond credit, MSMEs face a number of hurdles.

Technological lag: A significant 84 percent of digitally 'hesitant' MSMEs struggle to see clear value in technology investments, and 56 percent cite a lack of technical skills for modern solutions. This hinders their ability to upgrade processes and compete effectively.

Regulatory burden: The complexity of compliance with tax laws, labour regulations and licences disproportionately burden smaller units.

Delayed payments: Large entities often exploit procedural loopholes to delay payments to MSMEs, severely impacting their cash flow and financial health—a persistent problem the government is trying to address, for instance, with the new Online Dispute Resolution Portal.

Skilled labour shortage: The National Skill Development Corporation estimates nearly 47 percent of MSME workers require reskilling or upskilling. Yet, investment in structured training programmes remains low. A truly holistic manufacturing strategy for India must look beyond PLI and actively empower MSMEs. This means a multi-pronged approach.

Deepening financial inclusion: expanding collateral-free loan schemes like Credit Guarantee Fund Trust for Micro and Small Enterprises—recently revamped with the loan ceiling doubled to ₹10 crore—and ensuring their effective penetration to micro and women-led enterprises.

Accelerating technology adoption: Providing targeted subsidies and handholding for MSMEs to embrace digital tools, automation and sustainable technologies.

Simplifying regulatory frameworks: Continuously reviewing and simplifying compliance procedures to ease the burden on small businesses.

Strengthening supply chain linkages: Mandating and enforcing timely payments from large corporations to MSMEs and fostering stronger, more equitable linkages, perhaps through incentives for large PLI beneficiaries to source significantly from MSMEs.

Investing in targeted skill development: Customising skilling programmes to meet the specific needs of MSME clusters and promoting apprenticeships to build a job-ready workforce.

For a truly resilient and inclusive 'Make in India' vision, we must ensure that the roar of large factories is not the only sound we hear. The vibrant hum of thriving micro and small enterprises must echo equally loudly. Only then can India's manufacturing prowess translate into widespread prosperity and sustainable growth.

Home minister confirms killing of April 22 Pahalgam attackers during Op Mahadev, slams Cong over Pakistan policy

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

HOME Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday told Parliament that three Pakistani LeT terrorists behind the April 22 Pahalgam attack were killed in Operation Mahadev near Srinagar and blamed Congress for the creation of Pakistan. He accused P Chidambaram of "trying to save Pakistan" by questioning its link to the attack.

Addressing the Lok Sabha during a special discussion on Operation Sindoor, Shah said that the slain terrorists—Suleiman, Afghan, and Jibran—were top LeT operatives responsible for killing 26 tourists in Baisaran. "All three were eliminated after a two-month-long intelligence operation involving the Army, CRPF, and J&K police. Their masters were earlier neutralised in Operation Sindoor," Shah said.

He revealed that Operation Mahadev began on May 22 when the Intelligence Bureau intercepted signals from an encrypted communication system used by terrorists. After weeks of surveillance and coordination among security forces, their location was confirmed on July 22. "We sent human assets who had seen their faces. They identified their bodies after the encounter," he said.

Shah said that an M9 carbine and two AK-47s recovered from the terrorists were the same weapons used in the April 22 killings, confirmed by forensic tests in Chandigarh. "This is a clear message: India will bring justice to every victim of terrorism," he asserted.

Shah said two Pakistani voter IDs and chocolate packets were found on the terrorists, and their weapons came from a "western neighbour." He added that the NIA questioned 1,055 people over 3,000 hours.

Shah launched a scathing attack on the Congress, blaming it for "historical missteps" that led to the creation of Pakistan and the loss of Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK). He accused first PM Jawaharlal Nehru of announcing a unilateral ceasefire in 1948, which halted India's advance in Kashmir. "PoK is Nehru's legacy," Shah said. He criticised the 1971 Simla Agreement, saying that India returned captured land and 93,000 Pakistani POWs without demanding PoK. "We missed a second opportunity." Shah questioned Congress repeal of the Prevention of Terrorism Act in 2004, asking: "Who're they trying to protect."

Responding to Congress leader Gaurav Gogoi's criticism of the Modi government for not escalating action against Pakistan post-Pahalgam, Shah said: "The security forces have replied—the killers are dead."

Shah slammed Chidambaram for suggesting Pahalgam terrorists were "homegrown", accusing him of trying to "save Pakistan". Shah said, "I thought the Opposition would be happy the attackers are dead, but it seems they're upset."

RAJNATH: DAY NOT FAR WHEN PoK WILL BE PART OF INDIA

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

DEFENCE Minister Rajnath Singh told the Rajya Sabha on Tuesday that the people of Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK) would one day certainly be happy to be part of India. "I assure the Opposition, who raised the PoK issue, that with the blessings of the people of our country and by God's will, the day is not far when the people of Pakistan-occupied Kashmir will return home to India," he said while initiating the special debate on Operation Sindoor in the Upper House of Parliament.

Singh suggested that the Pakistan government seek India's help if it is unable to control terrorism in Pakistan. "If you are not in a position to curb terrorism in your country, then take help from India; we are capable of assisting you in getting rid of terrorism." He cautioned Pakistan about the consequences of nurturing terrorism. "You will have to pay the price for feeding milk to snakes," he remarked.

He said, "Today India is capable of going to the root of terrorism and uprooting it". He reiterated the Modi government's commitment to eradicate the menace in all its forms and manifestations. Singh asserted that the government has adopted a new strategy to strengthen national security and, at the same time, effectively deal with terrorism. Describing Operation Sindoor as a demonstration of India's military capability, national resolve, morality and political acumen, Singh said that now the Indians are not vulnerable citizens of a soft country but proud citizens of a strong nation.

He emphasised that the government is not only safeguarding the borders, but is also creating a system that is making the nation strong from a strategic, economic and technological point of view. "Under PM Modi's leadership, India no longer tolerates; it gives a befitting reply. It is not going to bow down to any nuclear blackmail or other pressures," he said. He repeatedly cautioned that Operation Sindoor has only been halted, and not ended.

He stated that Operation Sindoor has turned a vulnerable citizen of a soft country into a proud citizen of a strong nation. "Pakistan always tries to justify terrorism. Therefore, it is important that in the fight against terrorism, we eliminate not only the terrorists but also the entire terror infrastructure. That is why our Prime Minister has said that Operation Sindoor is still going on," Singh explained.

Kharge attacks Shah, says he must take onus for Pahalgam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Leader of the Opposition in the Rajya Sabha and Congress President, Mallikarjun Kharge, on Tuesday said Home Minister Amit Shah must take responsibility for the "security lapse" that led to the Pahalgam terror attack and step down if he is responsible for it.

Participating in the "Special discussion on India's strong, successful and decisive Operation Sindoor in response to the terrorist attack in Pahalgam" in the Upper House of parliament, the Congress chief also sought accountability to be fixed for intelligence failures, adding that "whosoever is responsible should quit".

Kharge pointed out past intelligence failures to strengthen his demand. He said, "In 2016, terror attacks happened in Uri and Pathankot and in 2019, Pulwama. And now, in 2025, Pahalgam. All these incidents make it clear that there is a recurring intel failure and lapse in security. The government didn't learn the lesson. What did you do to correct the mistake? I want to ask the home minister who is responsible for this. If he is responsible, then let him vacate his chair."

Kharge asked how terrorists were able to enter India and carry out the Pahalgam attack even after the government claimed that it had crippled the terrorist infrastructure in the country. He said that Jammu and Kashmir Lieutenant Governor (L-G) Manoj Sinha's statement on security lapses was aimed at "saving" the home minister. "However, the home minister must take responsibility for the security lapse, not the L-G," Kharge said.

Kharge questioned the silence of PM Modi over US President Donald Trump's claims of brokering a ceasefire with Pakistan, and asked whether India had accepted a third-party mediation with Pakistan.

Kharge seeks to know from the govt's version and says key military officials said that "tactical mistakes" were made in the first two days of the operation | PTI

"Trump claimed that he had stopped the war between India and Pakistan. He has repeated this statement not once, not twice, but 29 times. He repeatedly said that he had used trade to stop the war," he said.

The LoP posed questions to the government: Why India accepted a ceasefire even when Pakistan was on the back foot? What were the terms of the ceasefire? Did the US intervene during Operation Sindoor and at whose behest?

The Congress leader sought a committee on the lines of the Kargil Review Committee set up by A B Vajpayee in 1999 to identify the loopholes that led to the Pahalgam attack.

Nadda retracts remarks on Kharge, says sorry after uproar in House

BJP president JP Nadda | PTI

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE Rajya Sabha on Tuesday witnessed a heated exchange between the Opposition and the treasury benches following "objectionable" remarks made by Leader of the House and BJP president JP Nadda against Leader of the Opposition and Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge. The controversy, however, ended with Nadda withdrawing his comments and apologising for his remarks.

Nadda, whose "lost his mental balance" remark about Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge triggered the uproar, told the House later: "I have taken back my words. I also apologise if your feelings have been hurt."

The row began after Kharge concluded his sharp speech with strong criticism of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Nadda responded by accusing Kharge of having "lost his mental balance," a remark that prompted immediate protest from the Opposition, leading to an uproar.

He also called for Kharge's remarks against the PM to be expunged, saying they were made in a "flow of emotion."

"He has long experience. The choice of words used during his speech did not reflect his stature. The kind of words used by him were below his stature. Therefore, I urge you to expunge those words," Nadda told the Chair.

Kharge who was in no mood to back off hit back, saying it was a "matter of shame" that such language was used. "JP Nadda is among the two or three ministers whom I respect a lot. But he is calling me mental. It is a matter of shame, he should apologise. I am not going to leave him," the Congress chief said. Nadda later issued an apology, but also added, "But I want to say that you got so carried away by your emotions that you could not even take care of the dignity of the Prime Minister. We are certainly sad about this."

He went on to describe PM Modi as "the most popular leader in the world," adding that the entire country, not just the BJP, takes pride in him. Nadda went on to reiterate his request to the chair that Kharge's remarks be removed from the record.

The Trinamool MPs, however, walked out in protest.

Kharge in his speech slammed the BJP-led government over repeated terror attacks, accusing it of failing on national security and demanding accountability from the top leadership.

"Since BJP has come to power, there have been attacks in the country. Yet there has been no action taken on it. Uri and Pathankot attack in 2016, the Pulwama attack in 2019 and now the Pahalgam attack in 2025," Kharge said during the debate.

'Modi remembers Tamil culture during polls'

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

LAUNCHING a broadside against the Modi dispensation over "security lapses" in Pahalgam terror attack and its "failed foreign policy", DMK MP Kanimozhi on Tuesday hit out at the government alleging that it "discovers Tamil culture only during election season".

Participating in the debate on Operation Sindoor in the Lok Sabha, Kanimozhi alleged that the "Vishwaguru" failed the people of his own country.

"Just before elections, you visit Tamil Nadu and invoke Tamil culture. But you don't accept archaeological evidence like Keezhadi, which highlights Tamil contributions to civilisation," said the MP.

On Modi's visit to Gangaikonda Cholapuram temple, she said: "Remember the name—Gangaikonda Cholan, the Chola king who conquered the Ganga. He was a Tamil."

The Thoothukudi MP questioned why terror attacks keep happening if India is 'Vishwaguru' and listed some of the recent incidents in J&K in which terrorists killed people.

Nine pilgrims were killed by terrorists in J&K's Reasi in May 2024, Kanimozhi said, adding there was another attack in October 2024, and two more in November 2024 and April 2025 in Srinagar and Pahalgam. "In Pulwama, they brought 240 kgs of RDX, we don't have any answers. Every time there is an attack, you say it will not happen again. Why didn't the government act when R&AW and IB said there were suspicious activities? Nothing was taken seriously... why did we let it slip?" she said.

She said, "You blame Congress for not having a good relationship with Sri Lanka. But TN's fishermen are still being arrested. The Lankan President has visited India. Still it is going on."

The DMK MP thanked the government for choosing Opposition MPs as members of delegations for Operation Sindoor's global outreach. "For the first time, the BJP has shown some confidence in the Opposition and sent us out as leaders or part of delegations to represent the country. I want to thank them, but I would like to say that if the opportunity to lead these delegations did not arise, we would have been happier and more grateful."

"Why did these delegations have to go, why did the attacks have to happen? Some opportunities are not to be celebrated but to be mourned. They arose because peace has failed us," Kanimozhi said.

Under whose pressure was ceasefire done, asks Akhilesh in House

Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav on Tuesday raised questions on India ending the conflict with Pakistan abruptly and asked, "Under whose pressure was the ceasefire done?" The former Uttar Pradesh CM also claimed that India's foreign policy has "completely collapsed" and called China a "monster" that will "gobble up our land and market". "Who will take responsibility for the intelligence lapse in the Pahalgam attack?" Yadav said, adding the tragic incident should never have happened. The "lapse" has cost precious lives and exposed vulnerabilities in the country's border strategy, he said. "The launch of Op Sindoor post Pahalgam attack is itself a symbol of the government's failure," he said.

Shah's Sindoor vs my mom's tears, says Priyanka

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

PRIYANKA Gandhi Vadra on Tuesday tore into the Modi government over the "security lapses" that led to the Pahalgam attack and said Home Minister Amit Shah talked about Jawaharlal Nehru, Indira Gandhi and even her mother's tears in the Lok Sabha but did not answer "why the war" against Pakistan was halted.

Participating in a special discussion in the Lok Sabha on 'Operation Sindoor', the Congress leader said that if no aircraft had been downed then what is the problem in stating this in Parliament.

Priyanka took on Shah for his remarks when he cited then Union minister Salman Khurshid's remarks to claim that then Congress president Sonia Gandhi "cried for the Batla House terrorists". "My mother's tears were talked about in the House, I want to answer this. My mother's tears fell when her husband was martyred by terrorists, when she was only 44 years old. Today, I am standing in this House and talking about those 26 people (killed in Pahalgam) as I know their pain," Priyanka said.

Wayanad MP Priyanka Gandhi Vadra

The Congress MP from Wayanad in Kerala said Shah talked about Jawaharlal Nehru, Indira Gandhi, even her mother's tears but did not answer "why the war was halted at a time when the enemy had nowhere to go". She said that the purpose of Operation Sindoor was to teach Pakistan a lesson, but perhaps this purpose remains unfulfilled, because "our diplomacy has failed".

"The proof of this is that after Operation Sindoor, a Pakistani general, whose hands were stained with blood, was having lunch with the American president."

She asked who will take responsibility for the failure of intelligence agencies in preventing the Pahalgam attack and whether Shah resigned or took responsibility for it.

Was no government agency in the know that such a dastardly terror attack is going to happen and a plot is being hatched in Pakistan, she asked. "It is a big failure of our government and intelligence agencies. Who will take responsibility for this? Has anyone resigned? They keep talking about the past, but who will answer about what is happening in the present," she said.

'TERRORIST'

An Afghan man, who used to sell blankets on Nagpur streets, was critically injured after three persons allegedly attacked him following an argument, with one of them calling him a "terrorist", police said, adding, the accused were yet to be apprehended.

Will step in if mass exclusion of voters: SC

Petitioners say nearly 65 lakh people likely to be excluded from Bihar electoral roll due to SIR; hearing on Aug 12 & 13

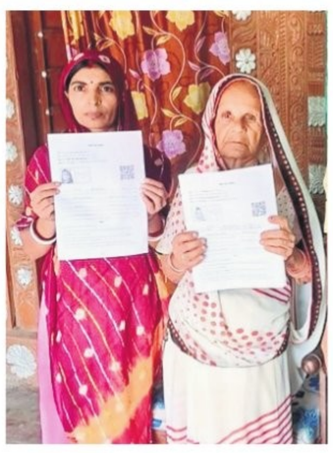
SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday said that it will step in immediately if there is a "mass exclusion" during the SIR (Special Intensive Revision) exercise of electoral rolls in Bihar. The court was hearing a batch of pleas challenging the revision of electoral rolls ahead of the state assembly polls scheduled for November.

A two-judge bench of Justices Surya Kant and Joymalya Bagchi made these observations, after senior lawyer Kapil Sibal, representing some petitioners, including NGO, Association for Democratic Reforms (ADR), informed the court that people were excluded from the draft list that is set to be published by the poll panel on August 1.

Prashant Bhushan, another lawyer appearing for NGO, ADR, said the EC has issued a press release stating 65 lakhs are either deceased or have permanently shifted. Echoing and agreeing on this submission of Bhushan, Sibal also added that only the EC knew who these 65 lakh people were. He suggested that if the poll panel mentions their names in draft list, the petitioners would have no objections.

The bench told Sibal, "As per your contention, you believe that 65 lakh odd voters will not be included. The EC is seeking



> Your apprehension is that 65 lakh voters will not feature in the draft list... We are overviewing the process as a judicial authority. If there is mass exclusion, we will immediately step in corrections regarding the 2025 entry. We are reviewing the situation as a judicial authority. If there is mass exclusion, we will intervene immediately. You can bring 15 people who claim they are alive yet have been excluded."
> Supreme Court

Opposing these submissions, senior advocate Rakesh Dwivedi, representing the EC, argued that once objections to the exclusion of names are considered, the real picture would emerge as to who has been excluded.

"People are entitled to object. A 30-day period has been given to file objections.The petitioners should assist in having the names added," Dwivedi said, adding that the exercise is expected to be completed by September 15.

The court clarified that if the draft list was conspicuously silent, it can be brought to its notice immediately. While fixing the pleas for hearing on August 12 and 13, the apex court asked the petitioners challenging the poll panel's decision to file their written submissions by August 8.

When Sibal requested the court to hear his submissions in the issue, the court told him it would hear him and also lawyer Prashant Bhushan for NGO- ADR, on their apprehension of the draft list, scheduled to be published on August 1.

On July 28, the Supreme Court in its order refused to stay the Election Commission from publishing draft voters list on August 1, 2025 after special intensive revision (SIR) exercise in Bihar. It also reiterated and asked the EC to complete the process in considering, including Aadhaar and Voter ID cards for their statutory correctness.

Earlier on July 10, the apex vacation bench, while refusing to stay the Bihar voter list revision, asked the ECI to complete the process.

'Balance between conservation, development'

Observing that a balance between environment protection and development is necessary, the Court on Tuesday permitted the Tree Authority to decide on a plea of the civic body Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation for felling 95 trees in Mumbai's Film City for the Goregaon-Mulund Link Road project. The bench was hearing the plea seeking apex court's nod for felling the trees.

SHIELD FOR LAWYERS AGAINST SUMMONS

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday said investigating agencies should not summon advocates for merely rendering legal opinion to, or representing clients under probe. However, the two-judge bench comprising Chief Justice B R Gavai and Justice K Vinod Chandran clarified that if any lawyer "is assisting the client in the crime", they can be issued summons.

The top court on July 8 initiated a suo motu case after taking note that the Enforcement Directorate (ED) had summoned senior lawyers Arvind Datar and Pratap Venugopal for offering legal opinions during the pendency of probes against their clients. The ED had withdrawn the summons after the legal fraternity raised hue and cry.

At the outset, Vikas Singh, senior lawyer and former Additional Solicitor General, appearing for the Supreme Court Bar Association (SCBA) and Vipin Nair, lawyer for the Supreme Court Advocates-on-Record Association (SCAoRA), objected to the ED's action.

"There can be a chilling effect on the legal profession if lawyers are summoned arbitrarily. If lawyers can be routinely summoned for advising clients, no one will dare provide counsel in sensitive criminal cases," Singh said. He sought safeguards similar to those followed by the CBI, for the ED.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the ED, agreed with the court saying lawyers should not be summoned just for legal opinion. The next hearing is scheduled on August 12.

Gujarat HC dismisses plea against UCC panel over minority exclusion

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THE Gujarat High Court on Tuesday dismissed a petition challenging the composition of the government-appointed five-member committee to assess the need for a Uniform Civil Code (UCC) in Gujarat and rejected allegations of the exclusion of minority community members from the committee.

The plea, filed by Surat resident Abdul Vahab Sopariwala, argued that the absence of representation from religious minorities on the panel violated constitutional provisions, particularly Articles 14, 15, and 25, which ensure equality, and freedom of religion. The bench headed by Justice Niral S Mehta summarily rejected the plea.

The petition traced its origins to a representation made to Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel on March 16, following the February 4 announcement of the committee's formation. The petitioner demanded the panel's reconstitution to include individuals knowledgeable in personal law from minority communities. The government must undertake a consultative process before proposing a UCC, the petition said.

Further, the plea alleged that the committee was formed without any formal government notification, questioning the transparency of the process. It also emphasised that the personal laws of various communities are tied to cultural identity and must be preserved under the constitutional framework.

The current panel tasked with studying feasibility of a UCC and drafting a bill, is chaired by retired Supreme Court judge Justice Ranjana Desai. Other members include retired IAS officer C L Meena, Advocate R C Kodekar, former South Gujarat University V-C Dakshesh Thakar, and social activist Geetaben Shroff. None of them belongs to religious minority groups.

Commitee comprises

- Justice Ranjana Desai, retired SC judge
- C L Meena, IAS officer
- Dakshesh Thakar, former South Gujarat University V-C
- R C Kodekar, Advocate
- Geetaben Shroff, social activist

No minority in panel

The petitioner demanded the panel's reconstitution to include individuals knowledgeable in personal law from minority communities. It emphasised that the personal laws of various communities are tied to cultural identity and must be preserved under the Constitution.

INDIA bloc seat-sharing faces uphill task in Bihar

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

THE INDIA bloc has begun discussions on contentious seat-sharing for the forthcoming election in Bihar, but faces an uphill task in building a consensus among all allies, given their growing aspiration for cornering more seats.

Former minister and VIP chief Mukesh Sahani, in a terse post on X, said, "Vikassheel Insaan Party will contest the election on 60 seats in 2025. On the remaining seats, our coalition partners will contest."

In addition, Sahani is eyeing the deputy chief minister's post, insisting that the 'son of a Mallah' in that post would be a matter of pride. However, VIP has no members in the Bihar assembly as its four MLAs switched over to the BJP.

An RJD leader said every party wants to secure as many seats as possible, but one should adopt a prudent approach to resolve the matter.

The INDIA bloc's coordination committee, formed for the assembly election, has held five meetings so far. In the last meeting, all coalition partners discussed the issue of seat-sharing threadbare. The INDIA bloc in Bihar comprises RJD, Congress, CPI (M-L), CPI, CPM and the VIP.

The RJD expects to contest the maximum number of seats, but is yet to indicate how many. In the last assembly election, it contested on 144 seats, winning 75 and emerged as the single largest party. Political observers believe that RJD, a significant ally of the INDIA bloc, would like to retain the same number of seats. The Congress, which won 19 out of 70 seats in 2020, may settle for 50 seats.

CPI state secretary Ramnaresh Pandey recently said his party's list of 24 seats is already with the coordination committee chairman, Tejashwi Prasad Yadav. CPI won two out of six the last time. The CPI (M-L) has set its sights on 40-45 seats. General Secretary Dipankar Bhattacharya recently hinted at wanting more than the 19 seats it contested in 2020. It won on 12.

After the last meeting, Tejashwi Yadav had said, "Discussions were held on sharing of seats among alliance partners. We have agreed to send a list of possible seats that each partner wants to contest. We hope the issue will be settled amicably."

'SALE UNABATED'

HC seeks DGP affidavit on beef ban in J'khand

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Ranchi

THE Jharkhand High Court on Tuesday sought an affidavit from the DGP, stating in detail all the measures taken towards banning the sale of prohibited meat in the state.

The division court of Chief Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan and Justice Sujit Narayan Prasad directed the DGP to file the affidavit himself.

Advocate Shubham Kataruka, on behalf of the petitioner, told the court that the Ranchi SSP had filed an affidavit in the light of the earlier HC order, where he stated that an FIR will be registered against those transporting banned meat.

The SSP, in his affidavit, denied that banned meat is being sold openly or is being marketed in Doranda or Lower Bazaar area in Ranchi.

"Even today, banned meat is being sold indiscriminately in Ranchi's Qureshi Mohalla, Azad Basti, etc. No action is being taken against them," petitioner's counsel informed the high court.

BJP says Didi trying to intimidate booth-level officers, writes to CEC...

KAUSHIK PRADHAN @ Kolkata

THE Leader of Opposition in the West Bengal Assembly, Suvendu Adhikari, on Tuesday wrote to the Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) of India, alleging that Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee was attempting to "intimidate" booth-level-officers (BLOs) in the state.

He urged the Election Commission (EC) to take cognisance of the matter and act swiftly to ensure the integrity of the electoral process.

In his letter to CEC Gyanesh Kumar, Adhikari alleged that Banerjee made public statements that "constitute a direct and unwarranted interference in the duties of BLOs and the broader electoral framework overseen by the ECI".

Referring to the CM's remarks at a public meeting in Bolpur in Birbhum on Monday, he said, "Banerjee expressed displeasure over the training of approximately 1,000 BLOs in Delhi, alleging that neither she nor the Chief Secretary were informed about this initiative. She further reminded BLOs that they are employees of the state government, implying that their allegiance lies with state administration rather than the EC during pre-election and post-election periods."

"Additionally, she instructed BLOs to ensure that no voter's name is removed from the voter list, which could be interpreted as an attempt to influence the revision of electoral rolls for political motives," the BJP leader alleged.

He said that Banerjee's statements are not only an affront to the autonomy and authority of the EC but also a veiled attempt to intimidate and coerce BLOs, who are tasked with ensuring the integrity of the Voter List and the electoral process.

"By asserting that BLOs are ultimately accountable to the state government, the CM is undermining the independence of election officials and creating an environment of fear and pressure, which jeopardises the democratic process. Such interference raises serious questions about free, fair, and transparent elections," Adhikari said.

... meanwhile, CM rakes up atrocities against Bengalis

The Chief Minister on Tuesday reiterated her allegation of atrocities against Bengali-speaking people in BJP-ruled states: "Despite having Aadhaar, ration card and land patta, people have been taken to detention camps, being moved from one police station to another."

Eviction drive at reserve forest in Assam to free 11K bighas of encroached land

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE Assam government on Tuesday launched a massive eviction drive at Uriamghat in Golaghat district to clear 11,000 bighas of land under encroachment at a reserve forest bordering Nagaland.

The exercise concluded peacefully. Authorities deployed a large number of police and forest personnel along with over 150 excavators.

A senior forest department official told this newspaper, "more than 20%" of the land was cleared. A majority of the illegal settlers had vacated the place after receiving notices from the government.

IG Akhilesh Kumar Singh, who was at the site, told the media that shops and houses, built in the reserve forest areas, were demolished. "We gave police protection. There are also forest protection force personnel. We received the support of locals. Law and order situation is under control," Singh said.

"A lot of the illegal settlers had left the place over the past few days after receiving notices. It was explained to them that they cannot stay inside the reserve forest anymore. They were convinced," he added.

Stating that the area is sufficiently secured, he said the drive would continue. An estimated 15,000 people, mostly Muslims, were settled in the area. Vast swathes of the land had betel nut plantations. The eviction drive followed CM Himanta Biswa Sarma's recent visit to Uriamghat.

"People of Assam are victims of the mass encroachment, demographic alteration and violence which are caused by illegal settlers. They are firmly behind our crackdown against encroachment and realise the need to reclaim what's truly ours," Sarma posted on X.

Security forces launch search ops in Kathua after movement of terrorists

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

SECURITY forces have launched a massive search operation in the border area of Jammu and Kashmir Kathua district after suspicious movement of three suspected persons was detected.

Sources said a joint contingent of Army, police and paramilitary forces launched a search operation in the Bhambada area of Hira Nagar subdivision near the Ujh River in the Rajbagh police station area of Kathua district late on Monday.

The search operation was launched after a woman informed the security officials that she saw three armed persons moving in the area, they said. "Without taking any chances, the security forces were conducting massive search operations. They were thoroughly conducting the searches to ensure that no one was hiding in the area. Every nook and corner of the area was being searched. No contact has been established and nothing incriminating has been recovered from the area during the operation," a source said.

Security personnel carry out ops near Ujh river in J&K's Kathua on Tuesday. | PTI

They said, considering the sensitivity of the area due to its connection with the Srinagar-Jammu national highway and the Pathankote highway, security forces were searching every inch of the land.

Sources said security forces also pressed drones and other surveillance gadgets for aerial surveillance during the operation. They have also increased patrolling and vigil on the Srinagar-Jammu and Kathua-Pathankote highways.

Given the Amarnath yatra, security arrangements on the two key highways in J&K have been beefed up. Over 3.70 lakh pilgrims have paid obeisance at the cave shrine in south Kashmir Himalayas since the start of the yatraon July 3.

After many encounters and terrorist attacks in the Jammu region, including in Kathua in the last few years, security forces have increased deployment and vigil in the entire Jammu region, especially in the border districts and border areas, where there are chances of infiltration.

'Power struggle' picks pace in UP as minister takes swipe at Yogi govt

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

A new kind of 'power struggle' is palpable in Lucknow, as Energy Minister AK Sharma has unexpectedly criticised his own government, raising serious questions over the decision to privatise Purvanchal and Dakshinanchal power companies.

Taking to his official social media handle X, Sharma stressed that such major decisions are not made unilaterally by the minister, but with full approval of the state's task force led by the Chief Secretary. The minister, in a statement, also claimed that the decision over the privatisation of DISCOMs was made at the highest level of state government.

A group of power department employees has been on a war path for the last seven months opposing the proposed privatisation of DISCOMS. Sharma, believed to be a close confidante of PM Modi and heading two significant departments, including the Power and Urban Development in the state, has blamed "miscreants in the guise of electricity employees" for damaging the department's image.

While accusing the department of selling public assets for peanuts, the protesting power employees have been demanding Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath take control of the department himself.

In a statement, the minister wondered why only he alone had faced four strikes during his three-year tenure as minister, while no other department was in trouble. The statement added that apparently, all those who were envious of the power minister had come together, but the divine and people were with the minister.

Over 60,000 dead as Gaza crisis reaches breaking point

Food, water, and medical supplies are running low; Israeli overnight airstrikes kill 28 people

DEIR AL-BALAH

OVER 60,000 Palestinians have been killed in the 21-month Israel-Hamas war, Gaza's Health Ministry said Tuesday. Israeli strikes overnight killed more than two dozen people, mostly women and children, according to health officials.

Israel's offensive, launched in response to Hamas' October 7, 2023 attack, has destroyed vast areas of Gaza, displaced around 90% of the population and fueled a catastrophic humanitarian crisis. Experts warned Tuesday that the territory of some 2 million Palestinians is on the brink of famine after Israeli restrictions and a breakdown of security have made it nearly impossible to safely deliver aid.

The Health Ministry, part of the Hamas-run government, said the death toll has climbed to 60,034, with 145,870 others wounded since the war started. The victims include 18,592 children and 9,782 women. Together, they make up nearly half the dead. The ministry is staffed by medical professionals. The United Nations and other independent experts view its figures as the most reliable count of casualties. Israel has disputed its figures but has not provided its own account of casualties.

Airstrikes on tents housing displaced people in the built-up Nuseirat refugee camp late Monday killed 30 people, including 12 children and 14 women, according to Al-Awda Hspital. There was no immediate comment from the Israeli military. Israel says it only targets militants and blames civilian deaths on Hamas, saying the militants operate in populated areas. The military said it targeted Hamas military infrastructure over the past day, including rocket launchers, weapons storage facilities and tunnels.

Hospital officials meanwhile said they received the bodies of an additional 33 people who were killed by gunfire around an aid convoy in southern Gaza on Monday, bringing the toll to 58. Witnesses said Israeli forces fired toward the crowd.

Another 14 Palestinians were killed on Tuesday near a site run by the Gaza Humanitarian Foundation, an Israeli-backed American contractor, in central Gaza, according to local hospitals. GHF said there were no violent incidents near its sites on Tuesday.

The Integrated Food Security Phase Classification, or IPC, the foremost international authority on food crises, said Gaza has teetered on the brink of famine for two years. But it said recent developments, including strict Israeli restrictions, have "dramatically worsened" the situation.

"The facts are in — and they are undeniable," UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres said. "Palestinians in Gaza are enduring a humanitarian catastrophe of epic proportions... The trickle of aid must become an ocean."

Under mounting international pressure, Israel announced a series of measures over the weekend to increase the flow of aid, including expanded humanitarian corridors and international aid drops. AP

Netherlands bans far-right Israeli ministers amid talks

THE HAGUE

THE Netherlands has banned two far-right Israeli ministers from entering the country and the European Union has proposed suspending Israel from a lucrative tech investment program as frustration mounts over worsening conditions in Gaza. The ban targets hard-line National Security Minister Itamar Ben-Gvir and Finance Minister Bezalel Smotrich, key partners in Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's coalition.

It was announced in a letter sent late Monday by Dutch Foreign Minister Caspar Veldkamp to lawmakers along with other measures, declaring "The war in Gaza must stop."

The pair are champions of the Israeli settlement movement that supports continuing the war in Gaza, facilitating what they call the voluntary emigration of its Palestinian population and building Jewish settlements. Britain, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and Norway imposed financial sanctions on the two men last month.

The European Commission on Monday proposed partially suspending Israel's access to a lucrative science and technology program. The European Parliament could call a vote to cut off Israel's access to the investment arm of the European Innovation Council. To pass, the vote would need 55% of the bloc's 27-member nations. The programme backs small businesses and innovations in cybersecurity, drones, and AI AP

Germany, France, Britain may send FMs to Israel

Berlin: Germany, France and Britain are considering sending their foreign ministers to Israel next week, German Chancellor Friedrich Merz said Tuesday, as international pressure mounts over Gaza's dire humanitarian crisis. "We will probably ask the three foreign ministers of France, the United Kingdom and Germany to travel to Israel together next Thursday to present the position of... the three governments," Merz told a press conference in Berlin alongside Jordan's King Abdullah II. Meanwhile, the UK Prime Minister Keir Starmer said the UK will recognise a Palestinian state in September ' unless Israel agrees to a ceasefire in Gaza and takes steps toward long-term peace. Starmer called ministers together for a rare summertime Cabinet meeting to discuss the situation in Gaza.

Fukushima fuel removal delayed until 2037

Tokyo: The Japanese operator of the Fukushima Daiichi plant, TEPCO, announced that full-scale removal of melted fuel debris will be delayed until 2037 or later, underscoring ongoing challenges. The company needs 12 to 15 years for preparations, including reducing radiation and building necessary facilities. At least 880 tons of melted fuel and debris remain in the reactors. The delay pushes back Japan's 2051 decommissioning target. While TEPCO aims to meet that goal, officials acknowledge the difficulty. Plans to evaluate two other reactors will proceed, with full-scale retrieval to begin at the No. 3 reactor after further testing.

China and US agree to extend tariff pauses

STOCKHOLM

CHINA and the US have agreed to continue their tariff pauses on each other, China's top trade official said Tuesday in Stockholm, following a two-day meeting with US officials.

Speaking with the press, Li Chenggang said the two sides had 'constructive' and 'candid' discussions and agreed to keep the tariffs at current levels ' the US taxing Chinese goods at 30 per cent and China collecting 10 per cent on US products.

Li also said the two sides had 'comprehensive and in-depth' discussions on micro-economic issues, agreeing to keep close contact and 'communicate with each other in a timely manner on trade and economic issues.' Chinese and US trade officials held their latest round of trade talks in the Swedish capital on Monday and Tuesday to try to break a logjam over tariffs that have skewed the pivotal commercial ties between the world's two largest economies.

US Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent is expected to speak with reporters later on Tuesday. On the first day, the talks lasted nearly five hours behind closed doors at the Swedish prime minister's office Monday. Before the talks resumed Tuesday, Swedish Prime Minister Ulf Kristersson met with Bessent and US trade representative Jamieson Greer over breakfast.

The United States has struck deals over tariffs with some of its key trading partners ' including Britain, Japan and the European Union ' since US President Donald Trump announced 'Liberation Day' tariffs against dozens of countries in April. China remains perhaps the biggest unresolved case.

"The Chinese have been very pragmatic," Greer said in comments posted on social media by his office late Monday. "Obviously we've had a lot of tensions over the years. We have tensions now, but the fact that we are regularly meeting with them to address these issues gives us a good footing for these negotiations." AFP

Indian national killed in plane crash in Canada

OTTAWA

AN Indian national has died in a small plane crash near Deer Lake in eastern Canada, the Consulate General of India in Toronto said on Tuesday. The plane crashed shortly after take-off near the Deer Lake Regional Airport on Saturday evening, according to CBC news. "With deep sorrow, we mourn the tragic passing of Mr Gautam Santhosh, an Indian national, who lost his life in an accident involving a commercial survey aircraft near Deer Lake, Newfoundland," the Consulate said on social media.

It said it is in close contact with the bereaved family and local authorities in Canada to provide all necessary assistance and support. "We extend our heartfelt condolences to his family during this difficult time," it added. The Transportation Safety Board said a Piper PA-31 Navajo aircraft registered to Kisik Aerial Survey Inc. crashed about a kilometre south of Deer Lake Airport after taking off on a local flight on July 26. According to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP), the crash prompted the immediate closure of the Trans-Canada Highway (TCH) near the Deer Lake Airport for several hours to allow emergency personnel to respond to the scene. "Two persons were on board the flight: the pilot, a 54-year-old man, and his lone passenger, a 27-year-old man. Both occupants were pronounced deceased at the scene," it said in a statement. PTI

HEAVY RAINS AND FLOODING KILL 34 PEOPLE NEAR BEIJING

TAISHITUN

HEAVY rains and flooding killed 30 people in Beijing, authorities in the Chinese capital reported on Tuesday, bringing the death toll from the storms in the region to at least 34.

A city government statement said that 28 people had died in its hard-hit Miyun district and two others in Yanqing district as of midnight. Both are outlying parts of the sprawling city, far from the downtown.

More heavy rain fell overnight in the area. More than 80,000 people have been relocated in Beijing, including about 17,000 in Miyun, the statement said. Reports on Monday said a landslide had killed four people in a rural part of Luanping county in neighboring Hebei province. Eight others were missing. A resident told the state-backed Beijing News that communications were down and he couldn't reach his relatives. The storms had dropped more than 16 centimeters (6 inches) of rain on average in Beijing by midnight Tuesday, with two towns in Miyun recording 54 centimeters (21 inches) of precipitation, the city said.

Workers use heavy machinery to clear debris along a road near a bridge damaged by floods after heavy rains in Miyun district on the outskirts of Beijing | AP

Authorities in Miyun released water from a reservoir that was at its highest level since it was built in 1959. Authorities warned people to stay away from rivers downstream as their levels rose and as more heavy rain was forecast.

China's Premier Li Qiang said Monday that the heavy rain and flooding in Miyun caused "serious casualties," and called for rescue efforts, according to China's Xinhua News Agency. The storm knocked out power in more than 130 villages in Beijing, destroyed communication lines and damaged more than 30 sections of road. Heavy flooding washed away cars and downed power poles in Miyun, which borders Hebei's Luanping county. AP

Russia kills 22 in Ukraine as Kremlin defies Trump

KYIV

RUSSIAN glide bombs and ballistic missiles struck a Ukrainian prison and a medical facility overnight as Russia's relentless strikes on civilian areas killed at least 27 people across the country, officials said Tuesday, despite U.S. President Donald Trump's threat to soon punish Russia with sanctions and tariffs unless it stops.

Four powerful Russian glide bombs hit a prison in Ukraine's southeastern Zaporizhzhia region, authorities said. They killed at least 16 inmates and wounded more than 90 others, Ukraine's Justice Ministry said. In the Dnipro region of central Ukraine, authorities said Russian missiles partially destroyed a three-story building and damaged nearby medical facilities, including a maternity hospital and a city hospital ward. At least three people were killed, including a 23-year-old pregnant woman, and two other people were killed elsewhere in the region, regional authorities said.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said that overnight Russian strikes across the country hit 73 cities, towns and villages. "These were conscious, deliberate strikes — not accidental," Zelenskyy said on Telegram.

Trump said Monday he is giving Russian President Vladimir Putin 10 to 12 days to stop the killing in Ukraine after three years of war, moving up a 50-day deadline he had given the Russian leader two weeks ago. The move meant Trump wants peace efforts to make progress by August 7-9. AP

17 years on, Kiran Desai in Booker Prize race again

LONDON

INDIAN author Kiran Desai, who won the Booker Prize and then didn't publish a novel for almost two decades, is up for the award again with her long-awaited follow-up.

Kiran Desai

"The Loneliness of Sonia and Sunny," the 677-page tale of two young Indians making their way in the United States, is one of 13 books announced Tuesday as semifinalists for the prestigious 50,000-pound ($67,000) prize. The contenders include authors from nine countries on four continents.

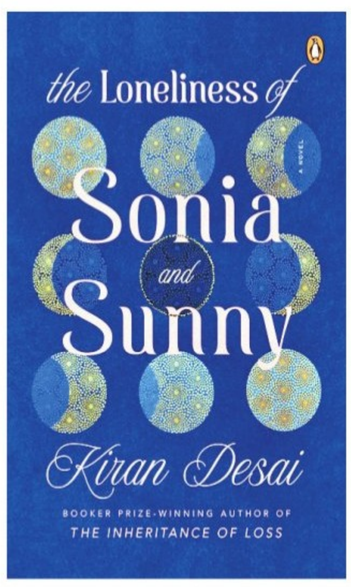
It's Desai's first novel since "The Inheritance of Loss," which won the Booker in 2006.

Two previous finalists are up for the prize again: UK writer Andrew Miller, for "The Land in Winter," and Hungarian-British writer David Szalay for "Flesh."

Tash Aw, who has been a semifinalist twice before, will be the first Malaysian winner if he takes the prize for "The South." Five of the contenders are from Britain: Miller, Szalay, Natasha Brown ("Universality"), Jonathan Buckley ("One Boat") and Benjamin Wood ("Seascraper").

Books by U.S. writers in the running include Susan Choi's "Flashlight," Katie Kitamura's "Audition" and Ben Markovits' "The Rest of Our Lives."

Also on the list are "Misinterpretation" by Albanian-American Ledia Xhoga, "Love Forms"



by Trinidad's Claire Adam, and "Endling," a debut novel by Canadian-Ukrainian opera librettist Maria Reva.

"The 13 longlisted novels bring the reader to Hungary, Albania, the north of England, Malaysia, Ukraine, Korea, London, New York, Trinidad and Greece, India and the West Country," said Irish novelist Roddy Doyle, chair of a five-member judging panel that includes actor Sarah Jessica Parker.

"All, somehow, examine identity, individual or national, and all, I think, are gripping and excellent," he said. Founded in 1969, the Booker Prize has a reputation for transforming writers' careers and is open to novels from any country published in the UK and Ireland. AP

NSE seeks to settle dark fibre, co-location cases

Exchange is of the view that it has strong grounds to contest each of the Sebi orders

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE NSE on Tuesday said it has filed two settlement applications with the Securities and Exchange Board (Sebi) in the co-location and dark fibre cases — both being investigated by the capital market regulator.

"On June 20, 2025, the exchange filed two separate settlement applications with the regulator under the Sebi settlement regulations 2018 for settlement of the co-location WTM (whole-time member) order and co-location AO (assessment officer) order; and b) the dark fibre WTM order and the dark fibre AO order," NSE said as part of disclosures in its earnings statement.

Response from the Sebi on the above-mentioned applications is awaited, the exchange added. However, it was quick to add that "based on the opinion of the external legal counsel, NSE is of the view that it has strong grounds to contest each of the above orders/appeals including levy of monetary penalty passed by the Sebi.

"Accordingly, no provision for any liability in this regard is considered necessary in the consolidated statement of financial results for the June quarter, other than the amount of ₹100 crore imposed by the SAT in the colocation appeal, which had been duly adjusted against the amount deposited by the NSE with the Sebi during the fiscal ending March 2023," it added.

Earlier media reports stated that the exchange had paid a settlement amount of nearly ₹1,400 crore. Since ₹800 crore is already deposited with the Sebi in the co-location case, the exchange may have to pay an additional ₹600 crore to close the proceedings. More importantly, once the issue is settled, Sebi will issue the no objection certificate (NoC) to the NSE to go ahead with the much-delayed IPO process.

Meanwhile, the NSE has reported a consolidated net income of ₹2,924 crore in the June quarter, up from ₹2,650 crore in Q4FY25.

Revenue from transaction charges rose 7% to ₹3,150 crore, driven by an increase in volume across cash market and derivatives segments. During the quarter, cash market trading segment recorded an average daily traded volume of ₹1,08,542 crore, up 14% and the same for the equity futures segment was ₹1,68,430 crore, up 5% and that of the equity options was ₹55,514 crore, up 9%.

TCS layoffs can impact housing mkt in tech cities

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TATA Consultancy Services' (TCS) decision to lay off 2% of its workforce - impacting over 12,000 employees- could have ripple effects on the housing market, particularly in key tech cities such as Bengaluru and Pune. Industry experts warn that if other IT firms follow suit with workforce reductions, it may create uncertainty in the real estate market.

"There is no doubt that TCS is the de-facto bellwether of the Indian IT industry, and we can expect uncertainty in the overall housing market if these layoffs do happen – especially if other IT majors follow suit. IT sector significantly influences the housing market in India, mainly in key IT hubs such as Bengaluru, Hyderabad and Pune, where IT employees account for a sizeable share of mid-and high-value home sales," Prashant Thakur, regional director & head – research & advisory, ANAROCK Group told TNIE.

Thakur added that their contribution peaked between 2022 and early 2024, thanks to considerable IT employment spikes, salary increments, and the relocation trends seen after COVID-19. Even in robust premium housing market, IT professionals contribute to demand.

Prestige Group, which has a strong presence in its home turf Bengaluru, doesn't see any major impact of TCS layoffs on housing demand.

"Today, significantly more jobs are being created in Bangalore and other IT hubs across the country in GCCs, tech start-ups, and other IT and AI-related companies. In Bengaluru alone, over 1.2 lakhs jobs were created in 2024-25 in tech sectoras against 12,000 job layoffs by TCS," said Praveer Shrivastava, Sr. executive VP, residential, Prestige Group. He added, "A record 79 million sq.ft of office space was absorbed in India in 2024-25 with Bengaluru leading the list at 21.8 million sq ft. So economic activity and demand remain strong. Demand for real estate is coming from across segments including IT-related and as of now we don't see real impact coming out of recent newsflow."

CEO of a Pune-based realty firm expressed concern. "Demand from IT employees has slowed down in recent quarters due to stagnant wages in 2024. Layoffs on this scale could force working-class people across sectors to postpone purchases," the CEO said, requesting anonymity.

TCS on Sunday said layoffs are part of the company's broader strategy to become a "future-ready organisation", focusing on investments in technology, AI deployment, market expansion, and workforce realignment.

Rosneft-backed Nayara Energy cuts refinery output after EU sanctions

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

NAYARA ENERGY, a Rosneft-backed Indian refinery, has reduced operations at its 400,000-barrel-per-day (bpd) facility following announcement of new European Union sanctions on Russian crude oil.

The report citing industry sources said Nayara is currently operating the refinery at 70% to 80% of capacity, down from over 100% in each of the three months through June 2025. The operational cutback follows the EU's July 18, 2025, announcement of a fresh sanctions package targeting Russia. The measures include a reduced price cap on Russian crude and the unprecedented imposition of sanctions on Nayara Energy, marking the first instance of the EU sanctioning an Indian entity in connection with the Russia-Ukraine conflict.

Nayara operates India's third-largest refinery, located at Vadinar port in Gujarat, accounting for 8% of the country's refining capacity of 5.2 million bpd. It oversees a retail network of more than 6,750 petrol stations across the country. Russian oil major Rosneft owns a 49.13% stake in the firm.

Following the sanctions, Nayara has faced increasing difficulties in exporting refined products due to mounting storage constraints and growing reluctance among traders to handle its cargoes. The company typically exports at least four million barrels of refined fuels—including diesel, jet fuel, gasoline, and naphtha—each month through global traders.

Additionally, US tech giant Microsoft has suspended its services to Nayara Energy, prompting the company to initiate legal action. Nayara alleges Microsoft unilaterally and abruptly suspended access to critical services, including proprietary tools and data, despite these services being obtained under fully paid licences. In the interim, Nayara has turned to domestic provider Rediff.com for IT services.

Adding to the turmoil, CEO Alessandro des Dorides resigned last week. He has been replaced by Sergey Denisov, the company's Chief Development Officer.

Nasscom warns of IT workforce rationalisation

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

IT industry body Nasscom says the tech industry is at an inflection point, as AI (Artificial Intelligence) and automation move to the very core of how businesses operate.

Though Nasscom didn't mention anything about Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) layoff, it said over next several months, they anticipate some transitions as organisations pivot toward product-aligned delivery models, driven by rising client expectations around agility, innovation, and speed. "This shift is likely to reshape traditional service delivery frameworks and, in the near term, may lead to some workforce rationalisation as traditional skillsets are re-evaluated. In the long term, however, technology will remain a powerful catalyst for growth. Every wave of disruption brings new roles, new value chains, and new opportunities. As industries evolve, continuous skilling, upskilling, and cross-skilling will be critical to building future-ready, resilient workforces," it said.

As of Q4FY25, 1.5 million+ professionals have been trained in AI and GenAI skills across levels. In particular, advanced AI skillings have touched over 95,000 employees in leading listed firms, covering AI-native cloud, embedded AI, and applied intelligence certifications.

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE government has transferred ₹24.29 lakh crore cess proceeds to designated reserve funds during 2019-20 to 2024-25 as againsts collection of ₹22.21 lakh crore, the finance ministry told parliament on Tuesday.

Responding to a question by Trinamool Congress MP Sushmita Dev, Minister of state for Finance Pankaj Choudhary told Rajya Sabha the proceeds of such surcharge and cess go towards meeting certain specific needs such as financing of Centrally Sponsored Schemes.

The minister didn't explain the excess utilisation of taxes over total collection. However, economists said the same could be due to borrowings by the central government to compensate states for losses due to implementation of GST. "The benefits of such expenditure percolate to the states," said the minister to a question if the government is considering including them in divisible pool of taxes shared with the states. Article 270 of the Indian Constitution excludes surcharge on taxes and duties and any cess levied for specific purposes under any law made by Parliament from the distribution between the Union and states.

He tabled a chart showing various cess and surcharge collected from 2020-21 till 2024-25, and estimated collection for 2025-26. From 2020-21 to 2024-25, cess and surcharge collected was ₹19.4 lakh crore, a third of which was collected through GST compensation cess.

CENTRAL BANK TRIMS 2025 GDP FORECAST TO 4.0–4.8%

Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM) has revised Malaysia's 2025 GDP growth projection to between 4.0% and 4.8% from 4.5% - 5.5% previously. The projection takes into account various tariff scenarios, ranging from continued elevation of tariffs to more favourable trade negotiation outcomes. In a statement, the central bank said the forecast remains subject to uncertainties surrounding the global economy, both on the downside and the upside. Meanwhile, BNM Governor Datuk Seri Abdul Rasheed Ghaffour said the Malaysian economy remains resilient despite global uncertainties, supported by the outcome of structural reforms undertaken over the years. The sustained strength in economic activity and moderate inflation provides a supportive environment to pursue structural reforms for a more resilient and competitive Malaysia in the future, he said.

BOK BOARD MEMBERS SAY RATE CUTS NECESSARY

Board members of South Korea's central bank said there was a need to lower interest rates and cited US trade talks as a key factor to consider for the pace and timing of further cuts, at their latest meeting on July 10, minutes showed on Tuesday. The BOK kept its benchmark interest rate unchanged at 2.50% at the meeting, but a majority of board members signalled another rate cut in next three months and warned of "significant" economic uncertainty from US tariffs. A member concurred by saying "it is time to consider an additional rate cut", while another member said "the need for base rate cuts still remains". Board members cited developments in trade talks with the US as a key factor for the future policy path, as South Korean officials scramble to try to clinch a deal that reduces tariffs.

THAILAND

PREPARES $771 MN RELIEF BUDGET

Thailand has estimated initial damages from a 5-day border conflict with Cambodia at over 10 billion baht ($307.88 mn), with economic impact likely to rise further, finance minister Pichai Chunhavajira said on Tuesday. The government is preparing an initial relief budget of 25 billion baht ($771 mn) to support reconstruction and stimulate the economy, Pichai told reporters. In a separate statement, the ministry said it had rolled out a series of measures for individuals and businesses affected by the conflict. State-owned banks will offer loan repayment deferrals, low-interest loans, refinancing options and fee exemptions to aid recovery, while tax measures will include extended filing and payment deadlines until Sept, and deductions of 100,000 baht for home repairs and 30,000 baht for vehicle repairs.

IMF raises India GDP projection by 20 bps to 6.4%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE International Monetary Fund (IMF) has raised India's GDP growth projection in 2025-26 by 20 basis points to 6.4%, reflecting a more benign external environment than assumed in the April reference forecast.

The agency has raised FY26 growth projection by 10 bps to 6.4%. It has raised the growth forecast for China in 2025 by 80 basis points to 4.8% and by 20 bps to 4.2%. The IMF has raised the global growth projection by 20 bps to 3% for 2025 and 10 basis points to 3.1% in 2026.

"This reflects stronger-than-expected front-loading in anticipation of higher tariffs; lower average effective US tariff rates than announced in April; an improvement in financial conditions, including due to a weaker US dollar; and fiscal expansion in some major jurisdictions," the IMF said in its July World Economic Outlook report. It has projected global inflation to fall to 4.2% in 2025 and 3.6% in 2026, a path similar to the one projected in April. IMF warned that a rebound in tariff rates could lead to weaker growth. "Elevated uncertainty could start weighing on activity, as deadlines for tariffs expire without progress on substantial agreements. geopolitical tensions could disrupt global supply chains and push commodity prices up," said the report.

L&T net profit jumps 30% to ₹3,617 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

ENGINEERING and construction major Larsen & Toubro (L&T) on Tuesday reported a street beating growth in consolidated net profit at ₹3,617 crore in the June quarter, up 30% year-on-year, as its revenue improved 15.5% to ₹63,679 crore.

It said the order inflow for the quarter stood at ₹94,453 crore, a growth of 33% YoY, driven by strong order momentum from the Middle East. International orders stood at ₹48,675 crore, up from ₹32,598 crore. Global orders constituted 52% of total orders. Consolidated order book stood at ₹6,12,761 crore, with international orders being 46% of the total, L&T said. L&T expects the ongoing economic growth momentum to continue in the medium term facilitated by public and private capital investment. On the international front, L&T expects global economic activity to remain subdued with uneven momentum. Within international market, L&T expects the countries that are part of the Gulf Cooperation Council, led by Saudi Arabia, to sustain the investment momentum in both the physical and digital infrastructure of the region. The company has warned that despite its optimism around the GCC any further escalation of conflicts in the region may increase uncertainty for financial markets.

Venus gets wild-card entry in US Open's mixed doubles

Venus Williams' comeback is headed to the U.S. Open next month, when she will enter the redesigned mixed doubles tournament with Reilly Opelka via a wild-card entry. The 45-year-old and Opelka were among the 14 teams announced Tuesday by the U.S. Tennis Association for its mixed doubles event on Aug 19-20.

With sweeping powers to CEO, IOA dynamics may change

THE IOA president has had the last laugh. The Executive Committee of the Indian Olympic Association has finally called for truce and agreed to ratify the appointment of Chief Executive Officer Raghuram Iyer.

The CEO, as mandated by the amended constitution, has called for a Special General Meeting in August. The SGM would consider and pass the audited statement of accounts for the financial year 2023-24, which was still pending. It (at SGM) will also appoint a statutory auditor for 2024-25 and approve submission of bids to the Commonwealth Sports for hosting the 2030 Commonwealth Games. The CEO is active and as expected the dynamics within the IOA is set to change. Though there could be a salary cut from ₹20 lakh a month agreed upon last year but it's yet to be announced. Even if there is, it doesn't matter. The CEO in IOA wields immense power, second to the president.

Powers of the CEO

The EC had objected to the CEO's salary, but there were other points that the EC was not comfortable with at that time – CEO's sweeping power once he assumes office. The CEO can even take care of the finances of the IOA. Earlier, in his absence the cheques had to be signed by the IOA president and the treasurer. And because of the fight between the factions a number of vendors including the ones managing their websites and emails were not paid because the president and treasurer were never on one page. The constitution gives the CEO authority to operate bank accounts including signing cheques. "Accounts shall be maintained in such Scheduled or Nationalized Bank or Banks, as may be approved by the Executive Council in the name of the Association and shall be operated by the CEO in coordination and consultation with the President and Treasurer. In the absence of the availability of CEO for any reason, the account shall be jointly operated by the Treasurer and the President," says constitution. EC members were uncomfortable with the administrative powers.

What the constitution says

The IOA finally has an official spokesperson. According to the IOA constitution, Iyer shall "Act as the IOA's spokesperson". He along with the president will be responsible for "carrying on all correspondence in the name of the Association (save as otherwise directed by the President)". The CEO shall be in charge of day-to-day administration of the IOA. He shall "transact all office business in accordance with the decisions of the President, IOA, General Assembly and Executive Council." He along with the president will have sweeping powers even call for EC and general body meeting. The CEO will also manage all staff functions and can determine the size and compensation of, hire and terminate the professional staff in accordance with the compensation policy laid down by the Executive Council."

New minister, new outlook

The EC feud after the January meeting turned bitter. However, things started to change when new sports minister Mansukh Manadviya took charge last year. He became the first sports minister to visit the IOA Bhavan after taking charge. A new secretary joined the ministry this year. Top SAI officials were out. The minister had kept patient.

With the International Olympic Committee insisting that a strong unified IOA needed for a successful 2036 Olympic bid, truce seemed inevitable.

GAMBHIR GETS INTO ARGUMENT WITH CURATOR

FIROZ MIRZA @ London

INDIA head coach Gautam Gambhir had a verbal spat with pitch curator Lee Fortis of the Oval Cricket ground two days ahead of the fifth and final Test here on Tuesday. Apparently unhappy with the instruction being given by the ground staff, Gambhir, visibly upset, was seen having animated discussions with the chief curator and was even heard saying, "You don't tell us what to do."

It was learnt that the ground staff has even threatened to lodge a complaint against Gambhir to which the latter responded saying, "You can do whatever you like." Notably, India reached London on Monday evening following a brilliant draw against England in Manchester a day before. Shubman Gill and Co are still trailing 1-2 in the series and need to win the match if they wish to share honours with the hosts in the five-match rubber. A few of the Indian team members along with Gambhir, batting coach Sitanshu Kotak and bowling coach Morne Morkel reached the venue in the morning for the optional nets. Bowlers were marking their respective run-ups when Gambhir allegedly had a heated exchange with Fortis. It escalated soon enough and Kotak had to intervene and separate the duo.

Kotak later told the journalists during the press conference that it all started when they went to have a look at the pitch. "When we went to see the wicket, coaches were standing there and then he (curator) sent a man asking us to stay two-and-a-half-metre away from the wicket, which was little surprising because on a cricket wicket, which is hosting five-day match a day after and we were standing there wearing joggers. So that was a little awkward," Kotak said.

Indian support staff conversing with The Oval groundstaff on Tuesday | PTI

The batting coach was also asked whether the ugly exchange was a result of pressure Gambhir felt. "I don't think so. I think it's been a very, very competitive series and both the teams, to be fair to England also, played really well. We know that the first Test also and the Lord's Test also could have gone either way. So, all the Test matches went to the fifth day. So, it's been an absolutely brilliant Test series so far. But no, Gautam is someone I don't think...I've never seen him under pressure in our playing days to now. So, definitely not under pressure. But, yeah, we wish that the Lord's game, we could have won and gone 2-1 up. And all that, we all think, but that's not pressure. That's just going back and thinking that could we have done something different? But that's normal, nothing about taking pressure or anything like that."

"I felt we were just standing there looking at the wicket and one of the ground staff came there and told us to stay 2.5 metre away from the surface, in my cricketing career I have never seen anybody saying that because I don't know literally he was saying to the head coach to go outside the rope and see the wicket. Brushing the shoes or somebody is trying to put something in the wicket or somebody wearing spikes, the curator feels that it is fine but it was a very strange way of saying you go and stand two and a half metres away from here. So, I think that is where it started because Gautam is someone who does not even say unnecessary things."

Super selector: India's Test

Team management frets over availability of Bumrah, bowling combination ahead of 5th tie

Express in England

FIROZ MIRZA @LONDON

SOON after the loss in the first Test at Leeds, India head coach Gautam Gambhir has affirmed that they will not change their plan to play Jasprit Bumrah in only three of the five matches of the series.

"We won't change it. For us to manage his workload is more important. There is a lot of cricket going forward," Gambhir had told journalists after the first Test.

More than a month later with the series literally hanging in balance and India needing to win the fifth match starting at the Oval on Thursday, Gambhir and Co have to take an important call - should Bumrah play or not? And there are reasons for both. It's not that India's pace attack becomes toothless in absence of Bumrah.

They showed it during the second match in Edgbaston under Mohammed Siraj. The Hyderabad pacer and Akash Deep bowled in tandem in the match to scalp a five-for each and help India level the series 1-1. They lost with Bumrah at Lord's and made a remarkable comeback and drew the Manchester Test through their 143-over batting over five sessions.

But going without their pace spearhead at Oval will also not be easy. In Manchester, the head coach was once again questioned about pacers' fitness and he replied all of them are fit and ready for selection. India lost Akash Deep due to groin injury after the Lord's match while his possible replacement, Arshdeep Singh, too sustained an injury in the bowling hand during the team's net session ahead of the fourth match. Pace bowling-allrounder Nitish Kumar Reddy was then ruled out due to knee injury as India came into the fourth Test crippled with injuries. "We haven't had any conversation around the combination for the last Test," Gambhir told journalists after India's fightback on Sunday. "No decision has been made on whether Jasprit Bumrah will play or not. Ultimately, whoever plays, they will try and do the job for the country."

Batting coach Sitanshu Kotak was also asked about Bumrah's availability on Tuesday and he said a call will be made by the head coach, physio and captain Shubman Gill. "He bowled one innings in the last match. So obviously the head coach, our physio and captain, they will have a discussion and decide. No discussion has been done about Bumrah playing the match yet," he replied.

He also said the Oval wicket has some grass, a tad higher than the Manchester surface and moisture in it. This can make the team management reverse its decision on playing Bumrah only for three matches and the fact that the speedster bowled only in the first innings in the Manchester Test can only add weight to their possible move.

Irrespective of what combination they got with, India, in all likelihood, would have to make at least a couple of changes to their squad and one of them may be replacing debutant Anshul Kamboj with Akash Deep. The Haryana pacer looked out of place during his maiden international outing a few days back. More than the areas and line and lengths he bowled, it was his military pace that drew attention. He, at times, was bowling at 125 kmph in the match. To be fair on him, even Bumrah was not that quick in the match and it can be attributed to the wet outfield and tendency of the Dukes balls to get soft after 30-35 overs.

The visitors can also bring in fit-again Arshdeep Singh in place of Bumrah, if the team management maintains its previous stand on the pacer's workload management. And if they decide to field the Gujarat speedster with the series at stake, they can still accommodate Arshdeep but in place of one of the all-rounders. And that could only be Shardul Thakur in all probability especially after those match-saving knocks played by spin bowling all-rounder Ravindra Jadeja and Washington Sundar on Day 5 in Manchester. But for that they have to compromise their strategy of strengthening the batting depth even if it means sacrificing a specialist bowler.

Given the calls the current regime has taken in the past, it will only be prudent not to reach a conclusion based on the statements issued by its members. The next 24 hours will paint a clearer picture.

Cape Town to consistently delivering for Eng: Carse's story

FIROZ MIRZA @ London

BRYDON Carse is among three England pacers, who have played all four Test matches against India so far. With 155 overs under his belt, the 29-year-old allrounder is second on the list of the bowlers with most overs in the five-match series behind his teammate Chris Woakes. Apart from him, England captain Ben Stokes and speedster Woakes have played all the matches.

With Stokes unlikely to miss, chances are there either Carse or Woakes can be rested for the Oval Test. The 29-year-old bowling-allrounder might not be in top three of the leading wicket takers or scored plenty of runs in the series but he was bowler who gave England the wickets they were looking for at the crucial junctures. "Brydon's main qualities were athleticism and competitiveness,"

John Windows, one of Carse's first coaches at the Durham Academy, told this daily. Speaking on Carse's initial days with the academy, he said, "Brydon joined us as a 17-year-old after a season playing for Burnmoor Cricket Club that summer. He was always a whole hearted trier. He worked extremely hard in his U19 year to turn himself into a top athlete and has never looked back."

Born in Cape Town, South Africa and grew up in Gqeberha, Carse started playing cricket, hockey and rugby. He also accompanied his father James to the cricket field and watched him play numerous games and got hooked to the game. James, in turn, was captained at Northamptonshire by Geoff Cook in the 1980s.

Given his son's ambition to play cricket, James called Cook, a former England player and Durham coach, and that led to Carse playing his first summer of cricket for Burnmoor in 2014.

ARCHERY

Parents' sacrifice for son's golden shot: Sahil's tale

CHANDRA PRABHU @ Chennai

ON a calm evening in Essen, Germany, 24-year-old compound archer from Satara, Maharashtra Sahil Jadhav took the Zeche Zollverein arena by storm. After missing out on qualification for previous Archery World Cups, the FISU World University Games was his last opportunity. He made most of it, putting up a perfect performance to clinch gold on Saturday (July 26).

Sahil's journey in the sport, saw his father lose his job, mother selling her jewellery to cover expenses for his equipment and him almost calling it quits. That gold medal is a full-circle moment for the family, as their sacrifices paid off. A display of marksmanship in the men's compound final got him gold as he edged Great Britain's Ajay Scott 149-148. Earlier that day, he edged his compatriot and favourite for the title Kushal Dalal in the semifinal. "My coach kept telling me to maintain my focus and discipline. That helped with my consistency there," he told this daily.

Sahil Jadhav celebrates his win after the final | SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

What makes Sahil's medal winning performance significant was what was at stake. He failed to qualify for the Archery World Cups for the past two years. He felt that this stage was his last chance saloon, due to the age barrier in the University Games. "This tournament was a do-or-die for me, and I am happy to have clinched gold," he added. Sahil ended up disappointed in the national selection trials. He has missed out on qualifying to World Cups (of 2024 and 2025) and the World Championships in Gwangju, Korea by narrow margins. What made it even difficult was the fact that his father Rajesh Jadhav, did not have a stable job. "After he lost his job in the beginning of 2022, it became difficult to look after the expenses," he said. But his parents ensured that his journey in Archery continued. "My mother had sold her jewellery to cover up the costs for my equipment. They ensured I trained everyday in SAI's National Centre of Excellence in Kolkata," he explained. The parents will now be waiting for their son to return with a shining gold medal, which stands attested to their sacrifices. "Sahil made our dreams come true, he brought back our hopes in life," Rajesh told this daily. "With his friends in college landing jobs, we were worried. But we ensured that did not affect him and it paid off (in the University Games)."

Glad to see support paying off in gold: Coach

While Pravin Sawant's Drushti Archery Academy in Satara may have produced the likes of Asiad medallists Aditi Swami and Ojas Deotale, he wouldn't have felt that sigh of relief like he felt for Sahil's win. "Once his father lost his job, things became difficult. I convinced them that he is given time to train," Pravin told this daily.

GLOBAL GEOLOGICAL PARALLELS

THE PALAKKAD GAP IS NOT ALONE IN ITS GEOLOGICAL SIGNIFICANCE. AROUND THE WORLD, THERE ARE OTHER NATURAL MOUNTAIN PASSES FORMED BY TECTONIC MOVEMENT OR EROSION THAT MIRROR ITS ROLE

The Khyber Pass between Pakistan and Afghanistan, formed along a fault zone, has historically served as a corridor for trade and conquest

The Cumberland Gap in the Appalachian Mountains, created by tectonic folding, enabled westward expansion in the early United States

The Turkana Gap in Kenya was formed by the rifting of continental plates, much like the hypothesised Gondwana-driven rifting at Palakkad

A GEOLOGICAL CORRIDOR
BRIDGING LANDSCAPES & LEGACIES

A majestic tear in the Western Ghats, the Palakkad Gap is more than just a passage between Kerala and Tamil Nadu — it's a geological marvel, a climatic corridor, and a living museum of cultural fusion

POOJA K

NESTLED between the mighty ranges of the Western Ghats, the Palakkad Gap is a striking natural corridor linking the states of Kerala and Tamil Nadu. More than a simple pass, this low-lying breach in a mountain wall represents a unique blend of geology, ecology, and history.

The Palakkad Gap (also known as the Palghat Gap) spans approximately 30 km in width and lies between the Nilgiri Hills to the north and the Anaimalai Hills to the south. Unlike the rest of the towering Western Ghats, which act as a formidable barrier along India's western coast, this gap allows for the movement of air masses, species, and people across regions, influencing both climate and culture.

Formed over hundreds of millions of years, the Palakkad Gap is more than just a topographic feature — it is a crucial ecological and socioeconomic link. Historically, it enabled trade, migration, and even military movement. It is believed to have helped the ancient Chera dynasty administer both Kerala and Kongu Nadu (Western Tamil Nadu) as a unified territory from their capital at Karur. Later, during the 15th-18th centuries, Tamil Brahmin communities are also believed to have migrated to Palakkad through this natural corridor.

ROCKS FOUND ON EITHER SIDE OF THE PALAKKAD GAP

A geological and ecological contrast

Geologically, the Palakkad Gap is a rare break in a nearly continuous mountain chain. This opening allows lowland winds to pass from Tamil Nadu into Kerala, affecting weather and vegetation on both sides. The Kerala side of the gap is marked by lateritic soils, high humidity, and dense tropical forests. In contrast, the Tamil Nadu side, falling in the rain-shadow region, is significantly drier, with red soils and scrub vegetation.

Rich tropical vegetation, including teak, rosewood, jackfruit, and bamboo. The forests host diverse fauna such as elephants, gaurs, lion-tailed macaques, Malabar giant squirrels, and endemic birds like the Malabar trogon and Great Indian hornbill

PALAKKAD SIDE (KERALA)

Dominant Rocks : Charnockite, Khondalite, Gneiss (Biotite & Quartz-rich)Laterite (surface layer)

- They are part of the Southern Granulite Terrain
- Highly metamorphosed rocks
- Laterite forms due to intense tropical weathering.

Theories behind its formation

The geological origin of the Palakkad Gap remains a subject of scientific debate, with several competing theories supported by decades of research. One theory suggests that river-driven erosion contributed to the formation of the gap. The Bharathappuzha River (also known as River Ponnani), which originates near Pollachi in Tamil Nadu and flows westward through the gap into Kerala, is considered a potential agent of long-term erosion. However, experts agree that erosion alone is insufficient to account for the scale of the gap.

More widely accepted are theories involving tectonic processes. A 1972 study by geologists Ghosh and Sinha Roy proposed that the Palakkad Gap aligns with the Palghat-Cauvery shear zone — an ancient crustal weakness created by deep-seated faulting. Geologist Dr KS Valdiya also supported this idea, identifying the gap as a result of an ancient tectonic lineament or shear zone — where the Earth's crust was fractured during continental collisions or rifting events.

Another major theory posits that the Palakkad Gap lies along a suture zone — where two ancient cratons (stable blocks of continental crust) merged during the Precambrian era. On one side lies the Dharwar Craton, primarily in present-day Karnataka, and on the other, the Southern Granulite Terrane (SGT), covering parts of Tamil Nadu and Kerala. Rock dating and isotopic studies conducted by the Geological Survey of India (GSI) suggest this fusion occurred over 2.5 billion years ago. Differences in rock composition, petrography, and geochemistry on either side of the gap further support this theory.

A more recent hypothesis connects the formation of the gap to the breakup of the ancient supercontinent Gondwana. Around 88 million years ago, when India separated from Madagascar, the tectonic stress and continental rifting may have resulted in fractures in southern India's crust. Researchers have noted similarities between the metamorphic rocks of the Palakkad region and northeastern Madagascar, adding weight to the idea that the Palakkad Gap could be a remnant of a paleo-suture — an ancient split between once-joined landmasses.

'I QUESTION MY INTENTIONS WHEN I'M WRITING'

Content creator and standup comedian Shraddha Jain, aka Aiyyo Shraddha, speaks with CE on her new show in city and cherished moments from her standup journey

ANJALI RAM

THE world of comedy is often a space where laughter knows no boundaries, and people from all walks of life join in to share a moment of elation.

Shraddha Jain, popularly known as 'Aiyyo Shraddha', is one such standup comedian who does just that – creating a space that transcends cultures, ages and backgrounds, bound by the power of humour.

Now touring around the nation with her latest Aiyyo So Mini Things!, Jain is set to bring her humour to the city, where she performed her first show. "Bengalureans were my first audience and Bengaluru is my karmabhoomi – it gave me the opportunity to perform, " she says, adding, "My first stint as a performer was as a radio jockey because I could speak Kannada. I learned to speak Kannada only when I was doing my engineering here. So I feel, if not for Kannada, if not for Bengaluru, I probably would have been struggling in this space right now."

Jain loved the anonymity of being a voice on the radio. "People would imagine me in their own way, which was beautiful," she shares. However, with the shift to social media, she was compelled to establish her online presence, marking the beginning of her journey as 'Aiyyo Shraddha', a name that was born when she decided to break the image everyone had of her.

Her upcoming show is deeply rooted in her personal experiences and observations, and touches topics including politics, religion, and society, of course with a lot of humour.

Jain approaches these subjects with sensitivity and wit, aiming to make her audience laugh while also prompting them to think. "I question my intentions when I'm writing," she explains, adding, "I want to make people laugh, but I also want to make them think. It's a delicate balance, but it's one that I enjoy navigating."

For Jain, experiencing life and going about it is an important part of her writing process. "I don't sit down to write; I let life happen, and then I reflect on it. Because if you sit down to write, there could be a little bit of pretence that can creep in, that could be a little bit of acting that can creep in. It's not 100 per cent honest, because you are also in a hurry to complete things. When you're not in a hurry, you let it flow like a river and take natural turns," she explains.

What keeps her going? Her connection with the audience. "I've had audience members come up to me and say that they were nervous before the show, but I made them feel proud," she shares, adding, "That's a beautiful feeling, knowing that I've connected with someone on a deeper level."

In a world that often seems divided, she believes that comedy can be a powerful tool for unity. "I want to remind people that our biggest superpower is to love each other," she says. "If I can bring joy to someone's life, even if it's just for a few minutes, that's all the motivation I need," Jain signs off.

(Catch Shraddha Jain live at Dr BR Ambedkar Bhavan, Millers Road, on Aug 2; at MLR Convention Centre, Whitefield, on Aug 3 and at Prestige Centre for Performing Arts, Konanakunte, on Aug 9; all shows starting at 4pm. For details, visit bookmyshow.com)

Once a luxurious mansion home to a Briton, a Wadiyar princess, the army and a Dewan, this structure tucked away on Palace Road is now being restored to its former glory

A (Beau) Window to the Past

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

WHEN you go looking for the postmaster general's office on Palace Road, what greets you is a typical whitewashed government office, but a few steps further reveals a roughly 165-year-old mansion that seems to have slipped through a stitch in time, with the Mangalore tile roofs and beautiful bay windows to prove it.

Beaulieu (French word for 'beautiful place'), once the abode of a British civil servant, a princess, and a former Dewan of Mysore, is currently undergoing restoration.

Built around 1860 by British civil servant Lancelot Ricketts, who served as the first editor of the Mysore Gazette and as the director of Lal Bagh, Beaulieu was part of grounds spanning 24 acres where the horticulture enthusiast experimented with farming, had wells, stables, a pond, and outhouses. "It was a whole lot bigger and stretched very close to Cubbon Park. Since then, it's been sold off in 10 pieces. The old compound is gone, and there are no sheep in the gardens, no potatoes growing there anymore – it's difficult to imagine all that," comments historian Meera Iyer, who is also the director of the Bengaluru chapter of INTACH (Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage), which is restoring the building.

A few decades in, Ricketts, for reasons unknown, sold the building to Princess Jayalakshmammanni (also the owner of Jayalakshmi Vilas Palace in Mysuru), the eldest daughter of Chamarajendra Wadiyar X, in 1900. It was her and her husband, the former Dewan of Mysore M Kantharaj Urs' Bengaluru abode for decades until their daughter Leelavathi inherited it. "A lot of houses on and around Palace Road were owned by the royal family. Princesses had their own mansion in Bengaluru and a palace in Mysuru," explains Iyer. During World War II, the estate was briefly occupied by the army, as Leelavathi allowed them to use it rent-free for the war effort.

With the post office acquiring it in the 1960s, the mansion was put to practical use – rooms converted into offices with metal bureaus, rattan-patterned chairs and plastic cubicle partitions. Despite this, it is not difficult to imagine the building as the luxurious mansion it once was. As architect Pankaj Modi notes, the building has largely been well-maintained. Explaining the damage the team encountered upon starting the project, he says, "Structural issues were minimal but we had to work on changes done over time which affected the character of the building – an added staircase on the rear side, right in centre of the facade, Mangalore tile roofs changed to sheet roofing, and vitrified tile floors."

The front facade and garden, too, are remarkably well-maintained, although the main entrance now opens into the rear facade instead of the driveway that once welcomed carriages.

With phase 2 of the restoration coming to an end in the next 2 weeks, around 30 per cent of the structure will have been restored. The focus, for Modi, has been to restore the building's old-world charm, while ensuring functionality. "We've taken up work in four rooms, the corridor, and the rear facade in the first two phases – redoing the roofing and plastering. The added staircase is being replaced with one that's a little more sensitively done, because access is a functional requirement for the office," explains Modi, adding that materials for the project have been accessible at Bengaluru markets, and lime plaster is being made on site.

Princess' Diary

Kamakshi Devi Wadiyar, the daughter of former Mysore ruler Jayachamarajendra Wadiyar, recalls faint memories of Princess Leelavathi, who lived in Beaulieu after her mother, Jayalakshammanni. "I have vague memories of going with my mother to Leelavathi's Mysore mansion when I was a child which eventually became a part of the Mysore University campus. She was unwell at the time and passed away shortly thereafter. Beaulieu was sold to the postal department in the early 1960s when I was very young, by her husband Sardar Basavaraj Urs, after her demise"

ARUNJITH UNNIKRISHNAN

A two-time Ironman 70.3 finisher (Goa & Vietnam)

How to pull off an Ironman

A triathlon is an endurance race that combines swimming, cycling, and running – performed back-to-back in a single, continuous effort. The 70.3 Ironman format includes a 1.9km swim, a 90km ride, and a 21.1km run. Here's how to pull off an Ironman.

Swim smart: Race-day swims can be chaotic. Learn to stay calm in the water. Practise in open water to get used to currents, waves, jellyfish, etc. Pools build technique, but nature builds adaptation.

Know your bike: Choose a bike that fits your body and racing goals. Learn basic repairs like fixing flats and adjusting brakes. Train on terrain similar to the course.

ASK AN XPERT

Train for the run: Begin the mental switch from bike to run before the physical transition. Brick workouts (bike + run) help build endurance under fatigue.

Fuel right: Nutrition makes or breaks your race. Eat before hunger, drink before thirst. Use the same gels, bars, and drinks during training as on race day. Don't try anything new on race day.

Master transitions: Transitions are time-critical. Practice gear changes, use a checklist, and arrive early to study the course. Read the athlete guide. Seek advice from experienced triathletes.

FITBIT

BADDHA KONASANA POSE VARIATION FORWARD BEND
(BUTTERFLY POSE VARIATION FORWARD BEND)

This is a beginner level variation of Baddha Konasana Uttanasana (Bound Angle Forward Bend). It activates the hips, hip flexors, pelvic floor muscles, and abdominal muscles. The lower back and gluteus maximus muscles are stretched, increasing the range of motion. This grounding pose with feet away from the perineum activates the Muladhara (Root) Chakra.

STEPS

- Start in Dandasana (staff pose). Take a few breaths.
- Bend your knees and join the soles of your feet.
- Inhale, hold your ankles with your palms. Move the heels towards the body.
- Exhale, allow your knees to fall on the sides, feet comfortably away from the groins as in Baddha Konasana Close Up.
- Ensure your spine is upright. Connect with your breath. Interlock the fingers around the feet.
- Inhale, lengthen your spine, and open your chest, creating space between your vertebrae. As you exhale, fold forward to rest your head on your feet.
- Remain here for about six breaths or as per the body's capacity, looking at a point down or eyes closed. It allows the body to relax and release tension with each exhale. Take slow, deep breaths.
- Release the pose and return to Dandasana. Relax in Staff Pose Hands Back Knees Bent.
- TIPS: Place blankets, bolster, pillows or blocks under the thighs/knees or to rest the heads on.

BENEFITS

- Gives a gentle stretch to the inner thighs, groins, and knees.
- Makes for healthier ligaments, fascia, and tendons.
- Releases stiffness in the shoulders and neck, besides lower back and hips.
- Increases flexibility of the hips, releases tension throughout the backs of the thighs and flexes the knee joints.
- Increases the range of motion of the pelvic girdle, shoulders, and neck.
- Prepares the hips for more challenging forward bends.
- Focusing on body breath, prana (apana and samana pranas) moves upwards, clearing the blocked channels and bringing energy to the body.
- Calms the nervous system and brings an overall sense of relaxation in the body.
- Stimulates various chakras, bringing balance to both the body and mind.
- Accessible as part of therapeutic yoga.
- Alleviates symptoms related to disorders in the urinary bladder, kidneys, hernia, sciatica, etc.
- Helps women during their pregnancy and menstruation or even menopause stage.
- Help correct irregular periods and helps the ovaries to function properly.
- Pregnant women who practise this asana every day for a few minutes will have less pain during delivery.

LIMITATIONS

- Students who have had any injuries or surgeries, history of fibromyalgia, arthritis, asthma, sciatica, or any other condition that leaves pain in the joints and bones, and pregnant women can avoid this.
- Those with any issues related to vertigo, low or high blood pressure, insomnia, back pain, and hernia, should take extra care during practice.

MONSOON MEMORIES

Kerala-based artist Shalini B Menon's acrylic painting is an ode to the timeless sail of childhood nostalgia

In her new Gothic mystery, The Scratch and Sniff Chronicles, Hemangini Dutt Majumder turns smell into a superpower — unpacking secrets, memory and the comfort of food

SCENTS AND SENSIBILITIES

ADITHI REENA AJITH

HEMANGINI Dutt Majumder returns with her latest Gothic detective mystery, The Scratch and Sniff Chronicles (Niyogi Books, ₹495), featuring a new kind of sleuth – one who can sniff out more than just lies. The book was launched amid a laughter-filled conversation with a panel featuring actor Padmapriya Janakiraman; RJ Sarthak; chef Sadaf Hussain; and the author herself.

The evening set in the jasmine-scented, flower-filled auditorium was designed to evoke Neelbari, the mysterious ancestral estate in the novel, set in West Bengal's Chandannagar, mirroring the immersive world of Ollie's story.

Olympia Chattergé – Ollie, for short – is a 29-year-old sommelier with an aversion to working out, a deep love for food and random Nat Geo factoids, and one highly unusual gift: a hyper-sensitive nose which picks up random fragrances, that often has her jokingly comparing herself to Batman. Nearly every page contains a smell-note: the comforting familiarity of talcum powder, the sharpness of garam masala, the antiseptic zing of Ultracin gel, or the unmistakable aroma of Koraishutir Kochuri (fried bread with pea stuffing).

The idea to centre the narrative around olfactory senses was born out of Majumder's own hypersensitivity to smell – a condition partly linked to her diagnosis of polycystic ovaries. "This is a lived experience – a lens through which I've often experienced the world," she says.

From a young age, she associated every family member – and every space – with a distinct scent. "Smell is one of our earliest senses and it ties so deeply to nostalgia," she says. "Home had a smell. School had a smell. In the book, I talk about schools and little girls – chalk, tiffin boxes, and that mad mix of smells that instantly brings back memories."

Ollie's hyper-olfactory senses – triggered by hormonal changes since the age of 13 – become both a professional advantage (she's one of the few female sommeliers in her field) and a key to unravelling dark family secrets when the family relocates to the eerie ancestral estate of Neelbari.

Majumder reframes hyperosmia as a superpower rather than a burden. "The actual experience of hyperosmia isn't always pleasant. I wanted to take something that felt like a disadvantage, a liability, and flip it on its head."

She looks at scents as both emotional depth and investigative potential. "A heightened sense of smell isn't only about being overwhelmed by unpleasant odours – it's also about a deeper appreciation for beautiful, subtle ones," she explains. "I wanted to bring that richness into the story. And see whether Ollie could use it to find clues?"

Food in pages

Majumder slips food into the book in casual, offhanded observations – moments when characters are caught savouring something, or when Ollie's hypersensitive nose picks up a scent that triggers memory or emotion.

A Bengali, Majumder lives in Singapore but she has lived in many places – New York and Austin in the US, Bahrain, and in cities like Mumbai and Kolkata. Yet, her relationship with food remains deeply emotional and rooted to her Bengali roots in Kolkata. "Food is inextricably linked to home," she says. "When I find comfort food in a place, and the smells that come with it, that's when I know I've truly settled in. And when I leave a city, it feels like leaving a part of home behind."

Although she left Kolkata 25 years ago, that link between food, memory, and identity has only deepened. "As a wandering Bengali, your desire for food that reminds you of home just intensifies," she says. "You're having bouillabaisse somewhere and you're suddenly thinking of the macher jhol back home."

That deep emotional connection fuels the food writing in her book – which, she admits, may have accidentally taken over. "When I re-read it, I realised this is how my brain talks to me. But when other people read it, they're like, there's so much food in this!" So food wasn't just part of Ollie's world – it was part of the writing process itself. "It triggered memories, cravings, and recipes," says the author.

The novel's setting

Majumder, who describes herself as a lover of "work that happened hundreds of years ago," often returns to the comforts of Agatha Christie and PG Wodehouse. She sets The Scratch and Sniff Chronicles in the historic town of Chandannagar – once a French colony just outside Kolkata – because of a childhood memory. "Kolkata had British colonial ties, but Chandannagar had this strong, dreamy French influence that stayed romanticised in my head," she says.

The Chattergés – Ollie's family – are a nod to that very Francophile legacy, loosely inspired by figures like Durga Charan Rakshit, the first Indian to receive the French Légion d'honneur, who even re-spelled his name to reflect his immersion in the culture. Neelbari itself is imagined chaos – Gothic gargoyles, stained glass, a Kalibari shrine, a perfectly round room, sprawling gardens, and whispers in the walls.

While she's not working on her next book just yet, she's definitely eyeing another crime thriller. Let's just say Ollie might not be the only woman with a nose for trouble.

GATED COMMUNITIES AS NEW CIVILISATIONS

HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon
(Writer, comedian)

I live in an old-world apartment, where the lift has been creaking since the Bronze Age, and the watchman could put ChatGPT to shame. He moonlights as a caretaker and 'sunlights' as a plumber, and occasionally judges youngsters for bringing over their partners. When I first moved into my apartment, I wished my apartment were also posh and cutting-edge. But gradually, I have begun to warm up to the old-worldliness of it. Mine is the kind of apartment where a power cut makes everybody step out and check if their neighbours' power is gone too!

But when I walk into a posh gated community, I feel like Govinda entering Mumbai in a David Dhawan movie. I stare up at the buildings, make way for zipping RC cars controlled by children, and unsuccessfully try to impress the Siberian huskies with undiagnosed bipolar disorder in Indian summers. Modern gated communities are self-sustaining microcosms by themselves. You will find a supermarket, gym, play schools, and even a temple inside. Which makes them a little bit like Hotel California. You can always check in, but you may never leave. It's like a country where you don't need a passport to visit, but they will ask for your Aadhaar card, visitors' OTP, and (if they don't trust the way you look) will even click a picture of you for safekeeping.

These gated communities have their hierarchy, too. Right at the top are the richest people. They occupy the penthouses and the apartments with the best views, and where the traffic below looks like marching ants. In Middle-earth, you have the remaining flats. And right at the bottom, you have staff, security and blue-collar jobs on the ground floor. Of course, we all have to visit the nether regions of the world when we go to the basement and question all our life choices just to find our parking spot.

This microcosm has its own governing body. The Ministry of Security – with the security folks with walkie-talkies, even though nobody is walking or talking. Then there is the Ministry of Culture, who handle Deepavali celebrations, New Year bashes, and occasional karaoke terrorism within the gated community. Then there is the Ministry of Propaganda, which is governed by the apartment secretary and president.

The kids who grow up in these communities have friends who all belong to the same socio-economic class. They play posh sports like basketball, tennis, and mind games. The animals are all posh pets, and the language spoken is English – with an American slant. For someone who grew up playing on the streets, fighting off bullies and stray dogs every day just to play a game of cricket, I have mixed feelings about this upbringing. Of course, they live a sheltered, safe life free from any tensions from strangers and external threats. But I also wonder if they'd have benefited from exposure to a world outside their social circles, too.

Of course, as someone who has never been a parent (to a child, pet, or even a plant), I have no right to determine the right way to raise a child. But I wonder if the kids sometimes want to break free from the compound. To run into a Kirana store, pet a stray dog and run around in the sun without SPF 50 protection on their faces.

Maybe I'm just jealous. Maybe deep within, I want to live in a community where every birthday is celebrated with fireworks. Where the only real threat is a rogue Zumba instructor. Till then, I shall remain on the outside – petting stray dogs, dodging potholes, and wondering if I could sneak into the organic mango festival this weekend!

The title Loose Maada suits Yogi's character perfectly in this story

- Ranjith Kumar Gowda, director

YOGI'S NICKNAME 'LOOSE MAADA' IS NOW A FILM TITLE

Yogi

The film is directed by Ranjith Kumar Gowda and features Kishore in a pivotal role

A SHARADHAA

YOGI, who rose to fame as Loose Maada after his debut film Duniya, is now set to headline a film titled after that very nickname. Loose Maada is set to be directed by Ranjith Kumar Gowda, who made his debut with Apple Cake and followed it up with Kagada. This marks his third directorial project.

Produced by Dharmendra, the film will officially go on floors with a muhurath on July 31. Interestingly, Yogi, who played an eccentric character in Duniya, will once again be seen in an eccentric, stubborn, and unusual role in this film. "The title Loose Maada suits Yogi's character perfectly in this story," says Ranjith.

The makers have assembled an interesting cast, including popular South Indian actor Kishore in a key role. The ensemble also features Achyuth Kumar, Gopal Krishna Deshpande, Yash Shetty, Vivaan Akarsh, and Adi Lokesh, who will play the antagonist. Manasi Sudhir and Babu Hirannaiah are also part of the cast. The female lead is yet to be finalised.

Music for the film will be composed by Shashank Sheshagiri, while cinematography is handled by Pradeep B Reddy. Yogi, who was last seen in Sidlingu 2 and is awaiting the release of Lanka Sura, is also part of the Dhananjay-starrer Anna from Mexico, directed by Shankar Guru, which is currently on floors.

As for Loose Maada, the entire film will be shot in and around Mangaluru. The team plans to begin shooting on August 25.

Hithan Das to score music for Vijay Priya's romantic film, Kaadal

CE FEATURES

ROMANCE is a genre often revisited, but debut director Vijay Priya is determined to approach it differently. His upcoming Kannada film, Kaadal, will bring a deeper exploration of love and emotions, and stand apart with its storytelling and musical treatment.

"While Kannada cinema has seen a range of romantic films, I want to offer something distinct," says Vijay Priya. Lending weight to the script is dialogue writer Puneeth Rangaswamy, who is also currently directing Eelu Male.

Before the film goes on floors in August, the makers have released a promo track titled Sip By Sip, composed by Hithan Haasan, who is the music director of the film. "The film will have a mix of peppy, melodious tracks that enhance its emotional core," says Vijay Priya.

The lyrics are penned by Puneeth Rangaswamy, Bharjari Chetan, and Gauri Suta, each bringing their flavour to the soundtrack. Cinematographer Rajesh Acharya is on board the project, and Suhas Ameen will handle the choreography.

Produced by HR Suresha Gowda and Ramanjanappa Hennur, Kaadal will begin shooting in August. While the makers are keeping the cast details under wraps for now, an official announcement about them is expected to be out soon.

A lot like love

CINEMA WITHOUT BORDERS

In this weekly column, the writer introduces you to powerful cinema from across the world

Film: Dreams (Sex Love)

NAMRATA JOSHI

WHEN it's raining love in Hindi cinema, it feels quite opportune to have watched a Norwegian film that dwells on its ardency at its most primal and distilled. Dag Johan Haugerud's Dreams (Norwegian title Drommer), the second in his relationship trilogy, Sex Dreams Love, won the Golden Bear, the top award in the Main Competition section at the Berlinale earlier this year. It recently also played at the Sydney Film Festival and the Karlovy Vary International Film Festival.

The film is all about women, four of them, in fact. On the surface, it appears to be a simple exploration of young Johanne's (Ella Overbye) growing infatuation with her attractive new French teacher, Johanna (Selome Emnetu). What initially seems like any student's natural fondness for a compassionate, understanding and fun teacher starts turning into a compulsive and compelling preoccupation. Unable to grapple with the complexity of emotions that she is experiencing, Johanne goes and knocks on the teacher's door one day and is welcomed with a warm hug. "It felt like throwing myself from a cliff. I'd either be saved and everything would be fine or my world would come to an end," she recollects. What follows remains unexplained and mystifying. What truly happened between the two is left unsaid as Johanne begins putting things down on paper. Later, she shares the writing with her litterateur grandmother Karin (Anne Marit Jacobsen), who, in turn, brings it up with her daughter and Johanne's mother Kristin (Ane Dahl Torp). The two are unable to fathom whether the intimate details of the relationship and raw emotions expressed are for real or just imagined and dreamt by Johanne, and whether there's a real case of abuse of the pupil by the teacher. Entirely taken in with the merit of the work, the two also wonder if the evocative, daring memoir could, rather should, get published as a book or not.

Interestingly, the talented and impulsive Johanne also holds a mirror up to them. They are forced to confront their own unrealised dreams, unfulfilled talent and thwarted desires, their choices and regrets in life. Haugerud's set of three films, inspired by Krzysztof Kieslowski's classic Three Colours trilogy, offer varied perspectives on the ideas of companionship, togetherness and intimacy, in the process also casting a glance and questioning gender roles and expectations and the boxes of sexuality which we tend to fit people in. A story of queer awakening is how Johanne's publisher sees her expression of forbidden passion. "Am I queer just because I fell in love with Johanna?" she asks, lending a fluid dimension to the very idea of it. Dreams don't quite get explicit, as one would have expected it to. Instead, intimacy and eroticism are fleshed out largely through the many conversations.

A protracted voiceover (that can otherwise be a tiresome device, a literal nightmare when it comes to the narrative) runs smoothly through the film like a thread explaining the situations, with the characters perennially engaged in chatter. However, despite being dangerously wordy, the film never gets annoying. There's a lightness of touch and lovely play of words which has you invested in the dissection of feelings on screen. The honesty, transparency and longing of first love are achingly lovely, so is the awareness of its fragility, fleetingness and the eventual moving on from the person who meant the world to you. Most persuasive is how the depth of feelings, however momentary, can unlock the creativity within and take it to new heights, as it does in the case of Johanne.

The four actors lend perfect poise to the drama as the camera plays with their faces and the expressions that flit on them. Emnetu's Johanna is gorgeously radiant, making her students' attraction for her entirely believable. Overbye as Johanne is rightly cocky, mature for her age, yet vulnerable and sensitive, all at once. A wonderfully well-calibrated, alluring and captivating performance.

I didn't act in Eltuu Muthaa, I just became the character: Shaurya Prathap

A still from the film

CE FEATURES

WHILE debut films often follow safe, familiar patterns, Eltuu Muthaa, which marks Shaurya Prathap's acting debut, directed by Raa Surya, is far from commercial. "It is offbeat, it is real, and refuses to fit into a templated box," says Shaurya, who is looking forward to the film's release on August 1.

Ahead of the release, in a conversation with Cinema Express, Shaurya explains what lead him to become the face of Eltuu Muthaa, while also taking on a couple of additional responsibilities for the film.

"I wanted to be behind the camera. But I've always believed in strong content," says Shaurya, who co-wrote the film and also worked as a co-director. "I started by assisting Raa Surya in short films. There was another project in the pipeline, but it didn't take off due to the unavailability of a key player. That's when we picked up Eltuu Muthaa and shot a teaser, more like a test shoot. After watching it, the team felt I fit the lead role."

Shaurya plays a drummer who performs at funerals. "It's not a typical hero's role," he admits. "This man lives on the edge, struggling for survival. But there's something bigger he's chasing. The film explores this contrast through a symbolic tale, the battle between a cobra and a peacock. It reflects the innocent and wild sides of human nature."

Drawing from folk beliefs and grounded visuals, Eltuu Muthaa takes place in Coorg, where the team shot for 52 days. "I didn't act. I lived like Muthaa," Shaurya explains. "From the body language to the silences, everything was internal. That's what the script demanded. Since I was also part of the scriptwriting, I understood the role well."

With director Raa Surya and Sathya Srinivasan's Hi-Fi Production Studios backing the film, the team has crafted something honest and different. The film also stars Naveen Padil, Cockroach Suddhi, and Yamuna Srinidhi.

"This acting gig happened by accident. But I would act again, if the script excites me," says Shaurya, concluding, "I'm not asking to be a superhero. But I want roles that hold meaning, something that moves me and the audience."
